Lancaster Farming

Vol. 39 No. 11 | 60¢ Per Copy | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, January 22, 1994 | Four Sections | $19.75 Per Year

Literal horse power as usual provided transportation for Amish farmers in Lancaster County. And they got to their destination faster than their "English" neighbors. That's unusual. But blizzard-driven snow and sub-zero temperatures left cars, trucks, and vans stuck in snow-filled farm lanes and roadside banks. In one eastern Lancaster County farm lane, a team of three mules were seen pulling a stuck truck free from its icy entrapment. This will make the horse farmers smile. Many farmers in the state and surrounding areas say this is the coldest winter in memory.

Farmers In The Northeast Suffer Through Sub-Zero Weather

Lancaster Farming Staff

STATEWIDE — All across the state this week an artic front stalled all major business activities including the flow of agricultural commodities, as a minimum of a foot of snow and double-digit sub-zero temperatures blanketed the commonwealth, setting records throughout the week.

According to a variety of sources, farmers across the state have spent the week digging out and maintaining or repairing water pipes.

In the Lancaster and Lebanon county region, the snow began falling with the temperatures just before daybreak Monday morning, with a prediction of an accumulation of from 6- to 8-inches, and a mix of sleet and freezing rain.

In the majority of the region, the sleet and freezing rain constituted little of the total precipitation, so that, at least in the Capital Region, snowfall depths were reported to 14.5 inches.

There were reports of barn roofs giving way under the weight of the snow and numerous reports of broken water pipes as temperatures broke records into Wednesday morning with temperatures 14 degrees below zero in southcentral and southeastern Pennsylvania.

In the State College region, temperatures hit 20 below, and there were pockets of colder areas.

A number of highway accidents, closed roads, and automobiles stuck, stranded or otherwise sidelined made inches-thick-ice-covered highways even more treacherous.

The increased demand for electricity, obstensibly to heat homes, created too high of a demand on power companies.

According to public announcements, the situation could have created unintentional blackouts. In order to prevent those blackouts, the utilities asked for all residents to restrict any absoltutely unnecessary electricity and to reduce hot water consumption.

Don Cairns, president, Chester County 4-H Center, Inc., right, and Jim O'Brien, executor of Romano estate, meet at settlement on property for the new Chester County 4-H Center.

Chester 4-H Center Settles On Property

HONEYBROOK (Chester Co.)—The officers of the Chester County 4-H Center recently settled for the property the new center is to occupy. The meeting was with Jim O'Brien, the executor of the estate of Fiore Romano, who donated 15 acres to develop the center that is to be named in his honor.

"This is a glorious day for 4-H'ers in Chester County," said Don Cairns, center president. "The new center is eagerly anticipated by many people."

Also at the meeting were Russ Albright, chairman of the construction committee; Violet Beam, center treasurer; and Ruth Holmes, center secretary. The purchase of an additional five acres brings the total to 20 acres. The eagerly anticipated center will be located on Route 322 east of Honeybrook, in West Brandywine Township.

Holmes presented a check to O'Brien that represents donations from various sources. Every 4-H club in the county contributed. In addition, funds were received from charitable foundations, businesses and individuals. As soon as development plans are approved, construction of a pole building will begin.

Plans also call for the center to include show rings, and, eventually a community headquarters building. The center will be available for club meetings, shows, round-ups, and other 4-H activities. Other local organizations may find the community-based 4-H Center a convenient place for programs or activities.

The settlement is a highlight for the Chester County 4-H Center, Inc. Many members have worked

National Egg Market

Wednesday, January 19, 1994

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged. The market tone was mostly steady. Demand was mixed, mostly moderate and best into retail channels, while food service demand was light to fair. Extreme cold weather east of the Rockies, and the Southern California earthquake have disrupted transportation and delivery schedules. Supplies were generally adequate, and difficulty transporting eggs has created some shortages, and some surpluses. Breaking stock supplies were adequate, and the undertone was generally steady. Live hen markets were about steady, and supplies of hens were generally adequate, but the cold conditions have limited movement of birds off farm to the slaughter plants.

Most early morning offerings were booked at unchanged to slightly higher prices for deliveries through the weekend. Dark meat items were well cleared at unchanged to higher prices and the undertone was fully steady to firm. Wings were available for the very light demand. Prices were lower.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, January 19, 1994

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was mixed and irregular and continued to be affected by bad weather conditions in shipping channels. Supplies and offerings were also irregular as freezing temperatures in growing areas were disrupting production. Live supplies were moderate; weights were desirable to heavier than desired. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 52 to 64 cents.

Trade sentiment varied from steady to firm and was influenced by the weather. In the parts complex, supplies were in generally good balance, particularly, bone-in breasts. Wings were in heaviest supply.

SHAYS' REBELLION

Daniel Shays was a reluctant rebel. A captain who served "with distinction" in the American Revolution, by 1786 he was, like so many others, a very poor farmer. During the depression that followed the war, farmers in Massachusetts lacked the political clout needed to obtain relief from their situation. When petitions proved futile, a group of 1,200 desperate farmers persuaded Shays to be their leader. On January 25, 1787, they marched on the arsenal at Springfield, Massachusetts. The farmers were defeated by the militia and Shays fled to Vermont, but their efforts gained the support of Thomas Jefferson. Ultimately, relief measures were passed and in June 1788 Shays was given a full pardon.

I hold it, that a little rebellion, now and then, is a good thing and as necessary in the political world as storms in the physical. — Thomas Jefferson

TIP OF THE WEEK

Make sleeve protectors for messy little eaters: cut the feet off old socks and slide the leg sections over little arms.

EAR WISE

While we're waiting for the ultralight hybrid supercar to reach the marketplace (Rocky Mountain Institute estimates four to seven years) we can make wise choices buying today's cars. To get the most energy-efficient car in your size range, study mileage test results in consumer magazines or obtain the latest list from the EPA. Choose accessories wisely. Although many electric gadgets don't use much energy, they add to the weight of the car, and fuel economy drops 1% for each additional 100 pounds.

CHESTNUT, GRAPE, AND CELERY SALAD

1 cup boiled or roasted chestnuts, shelled
½ cup chopped celery
1 cup blue grapes, halved and seeded
¼ cup orange juice lettuce
vinaigrette dressing

Chop chestnuts, add celery and grapes, and marinate in orange juice for about 1 hour. Drain and serve on lettuce with vinaigrette dressing.

Makes 4 servings.

OPINION

Balance The National Budget

To us, it makes a lot of sense to balance the federal budget. The U.S. Senate is scheduled to vote on the issue in mid-to late-February, and the House will vote on an identical resolution in mid-to late-March. Currently, the Senate bill has 40 co-sponsors, and the House bill has 257 co-sponsors.

Farm Bureau's National Legislative Action Program (NLAP) coordinators are asking farmers to make request of members of Congress to support the measures. Richard Newpher, executive director of the American Farm Bureau in Washington, said they expect a close vote. President Clinton opposes the balanced budget amendment, so this adds extra opposition to the balanced budget resolutions.

While this is not the perfect answer to the nation's budget problems, it can be an important step to start the government in the right direction. The last balanced federal budget occurred in 1969, nearly 25 years ago.

In the present proposals, the amendment would require that federal outlays be in balance with federal revenues unless three-fifths of the entire membership of the House and Senate vote for higher spending. A Presidential signature is not needed, but the amendment must be ratified by 38 state legislatures.

The national debt has increased 1,415 percent since 1960, 712 percent since 1975, 384 percent since 1980 and 142 percent since 1985. It took more than 200 years for the U.S. to accumulate its first trillion dollars in national debt. But at the current rate the nation will acquire the second trillion dollars of debt in the next five years. In 1993, interest payments on the national debt have been estimated at $294 billion.

These efforts to balance the national budget certainly deserve the support of every (farm) taxpayer.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz
Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Know Cow Health

According to Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, the nutrient content of milk and the market value of milk are determined in part by the amount of protein and fat milk contains.

The level of these components in milk also reflects the condition of the cow. High fat tests in early lactation is an indication that cows are not consuming sufficient energy, forcing them to mobilize body fat too rapidly. This may lead to fat deposits in the liver, followed by ketosis, off-feed problems, low production, and twisted stomachs.

Low fat tests may indicate acidosis and abnormal rumen function which results in poor appetites, low production, laminitis, and poor feed efficiency. When cows are extremely thin, fat tests and protein tests are depressed and fat tests may be close to or below protein test. This usually results in very poor reproductive performance.

To Pick Up Wheat And Barley Yields

Wheat and barley yields have been on a steady increase for the past 75 years in the United States.

Many factors are responsible for the improvement in yields. Improvements in production management includes better fertility, better pest control, better planting methods, and improved varieties.

Plant breeders are continually improving varieties of wheat and barley. Growers should be taking advantage of new varieties. These new varieties are usually resistant to an additional disease or insect while having a higher yield potential.

The College of Agricultural Sciences at Penn State screens many of the new varieties and reports their performance each year. The 1993 winter wheat and barley performance reports are available from your local Penn State Cooperative Extension office.

To Attend Winter Meetings

The winter farm meeting season has started.

There are many excellent meetings being held over the next several months. This is your opportunity to learn the latest information on production, marketing, and government regulations.

This information will be helpful as you implement plans to keep your farm competitive. Also, this is the best time to pick up your pesticide recertification credits you will need to maintain your pesticide applicators licence.

Mark your calendars now for the meetings you want to attend. Come out this winter and see the latest products and equipment, learn about nutrient management, water issues, crop and livestock management, pathogen reduction in animal products, etc.

Farmers' willingness to participate in continuing education programs such as winter meetings is what has kept American agriculture strong and competitive.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ON SETTING YOUR FACE
January 23, 1994

Background Scripture:
Luke 9:51 - 10:2
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 8:18-22; 9:38; 10:1-15

"When the days drew near for Him to be received up, He set His face to go to Jerusalem" (Luke 9:51).

Setting one's face is thought to have been a popular Semitic allusion to an act of deliberate resolution. The opposite of setting "his face to go to Jerusalem" would be of him to have meandered his way there. One does not go to Jerusalem by chance or luck; it takes an almost fierce resolve.

Why? Because a showdown awaited him there. Unlike his previous visits there, he knew that this time going to Jerusalem could cost him his life. To avoid Jerusalem would mean failing in his mission. His desire was not for martyrdom, but for faithfulness to the task God had given him — even if it meant sacrifice in Jerusalem. So he had to make this commitment in the very depths of his own being. Yet, it still showed in his face.

A DELIBERATE RESOLVE

Along the way to Jerusalem, Jesus showed his followers exactly what discipleship means: setting one's face to go to Jerusalem, making a deliberate resolve that will not yield to anything or anyone that would sway us from our course. I am certain that Jesus, if he was human as we are — and he was, had to reset his face to go to Jerusalem every day on his way there, if not more often. We may be able to nail down to a specific time and place when we make our first resolve to follow Jesus, but, for most of us, it means remaking that resolve on a pretty regular basis, because along the way there are Samaritan villages that would tempt us from going on. Our own "village of the Samaritans" is any thing or persons that tempts us to sidetrack our discipleship.

When I moved from Pennsylvania to Texas, one of the features of church life down here that was a little difficult to get used to was the Southern Methodist custom of making an Invitation to Christian Discipleship at the close of each service. This is an invitation for people to publicly declare their discipleship as well as, more frequently, an opportunity for people to decide to join the local congregation. In my northeastern pastorates the invitation to join the church always followed a time of preparation in which prospective members were helped to understand the step they were proposing to make. I have come to the point where I appreciate both the pluses and minutes of both these practices.

INVITATION TO DISCIPLESHIP

But, regardless of which approach you use, I regret the popular assumption that being a Christian is synonymous with joining a church. It is not. The essence of being a Christian is the dsicipleship by which we follow Jesus. That dsicipleship usually involves being a member of a local congregation, but it is much less demanding to be a member of a church than it is to be a dsiciple of Christ. That also means that it is considerably easier to be a United Methodist, a Baptist, a Roman Catholic, or a Pentecostal than it is to be a Christian. If we teach Christian discipleship, we will more than likely get good church members in the bargain.

But I'm not at all sure that most of us want to be disciples of Jesus. For discipleship means setting our faces to go with him not to church, but to Jerusalem. It means counting the cost before we make the commitment: "Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay His head". It means that Jesus claims our highest loyalty: "Leave the dead to bury the dead". It means focussing our life on that discipleship: "No one puts his hand to the plow and looks back..."

Maybe that is why "The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few".

Thanks For The Investment, Scholarship Recipient Tells Foundation

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "Pastoring isn't all that much different (from farming), really. It seems either way I was destined to look after sheep."

That was the testament by Rev. Joe N. Sherer, who thanked the Lancaster Farm and Home Foundation directors and guests for a scholarship he received in 1975, "an investment you made in me. I thank you for that and for your vision and your trust in a young man 19 years ago."

Sherer spoke to about 100 guests during the Foundation's banquet as the wind chill outside measured 50 below and many roads were barely driveable because of a devastating snow and ice storm that ravaged the state.

Sherer said that before he entered college, he had a fully developed plan mapped out for his life. The plan included attending Penn State University to major in animal science and pursuing a degree in veterinary medicine.

But something happened along the way.

In his senior year at college, during a time he says of particular inner turmoil, he received what he can only describe as a "call from God" to serve in the ministry. What becomes even more mysterious was some of the encouragement he received to pursue that call from the most extraordinary sources.

One of those was a professor in ag science who told Sherer that "'I have no idea what your plans for the future may be, but you will miss your calling if you don't include some sort of teaching or speaking.'

"As a young Christian . . . that sounded to me like a very strange choice of words coming from a professor on a secular college campus," he said.

(Turn to Page A21)

Rev. Joe N. Sherer thanked the Lancaster Farm and Home Foundation directors and guests for a scholarship he received in 1975, "an investment you made in me. I thank you for that and for your vision and your trust in a young man 19 years ago."

He wrestled with making the decision to change such carved-in-stone plans, until he was asked, a few weeks later, to become a youth pastor with Mount Joy Mennonite Church. In subsequent years, he became associate pastor. Seven years ago he completed his master of divinity degree at Eastern Baptist Seminary in Philadelphia and has served full-time as pastor at Mount Joy ever since.

He thanked the directors and said, "I would like to think that you have enriched the community by your investment," said Sherer. "Your gift was deeply appreciated, and it really did help make it possible for me to continue my education."

Even though his life's work has not been veterinary medicine or anything having to do with animal husbandry or agriculture, he said, "I am and always will be a farm boy at heart. Springtime nearly always brings for me a bad case of plowing fever.

"I have not severed, nor forgotten, my roots," said Sherer. "And I would not trade my growing up years on the farm for any other.

"Much more important than the degree that one receives is the mindset one develops toward life and toward learning and toward serving other people."

Also scheduled to speak was Ken Risser, Richmond, Va., who also received a $500 scholarship. Risser, who is manager of the Glenwood Farms egg processing plant near Richmond, was unable to attend because of the devastating weather.

At the meeting, Dr. John Schwartz, extension director, spoke about the current scholarships, which include seven out of 19 applications, each worth $1,000. These seven are attending five different colleges and universities, of which four are studying agriculture and three are studying home economics.

So far, over the years, 338 scholarships totalling $247,300 have been awarded.

According to Robert Zook, Foundation president, work is under way to refurbish the lower level rooms and lease recently vacated office space.

Also, Chester J. Neuin provided a business manager report that indicated the recent conversion of the Farm and Home Center building from electric to gas heat has saved approximately $10,000 a year in heating bills.

Richard Haas, treasurer, reported on the finances of the Foundation. As of Dec. 31, 1993, total assets equalled $484,672 with a total equity of of $473,029. Total general operating expenses were $14,199 for the year and the Foundation reported a net income of $13,331.

Also, seven new directors were elected at the meeting. They are Joan Hershey, Mount Joy, former president of the Lancaster County Farm Women Society; Elvin Hess, Strasburg, a retired dairy farmer who was recently named Outstanding 4-H Beef Club leader; Mark S. Hess, Lancaster, retired farmer; Lilli Ann Kopp, Mount Joy, home economics teacher at Manheim Central and secretary of the Foundation's board of directors; James G. Kreider, Quarryville, who operates a 250-acre, 150-cow dairy and is president of Atlantic Breeders Cooperative; Charles H. Rohrer, Paradise, who operates a 225-acre, 80-cow dairy; and Larry H. Skromme, Lancaster, who serves on the finance and scholarship committees of the Foundation.

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's District 3 will hold its annual dinner meeting Jan. 25 at 11:45 a.m. at the Hoffman Building, Solanco Fairgrounds, in Quarryville.

PA Holstein Association Seeks Members

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association membership campaign is winding down. If you have not renewed your membership, you will soon notice some changes in your Holstein work. Publications such as Farmshine and PA Holstein Profiles will no longer arrive bringing you news of industry events. You will notice an increase in your registration costs at the National Association, as fees go up if you are not a state member.

There are many advantages to being a active member of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, including:

1. Savings of $6.00 for each calf registration under three months of age if also a National Holstein Association member.

2. A subscription to Pennsylvania Holstein Profiles, a $12.00 value.

3. A subscription to the weekly Farmshine newspaper, an $8.00 value.

4. Participation in educational, promotional and service programs at the local, district and state levels such as field days, barn meetings, tours, picnics, annual meetings, show, sales (domestic & international) plus support of a valuable youth program second to none.

You can get all this and much more for the base fee of $25.00. By being a State and National member you save money on every calf you register. If you have three calves to register this year, you can save enough money by being a State and National member to pay your base fee.

Possibly the most important benefit of all is the fact you can share your thoughts and concerns with other Holstein dairymen.

Take advantage of the opportunity to join the most active State Holstein Association in the country. Enjoy the benefits this membership can bring to your farm and family.

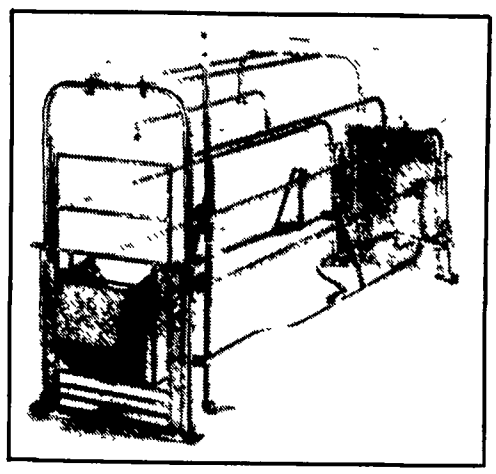
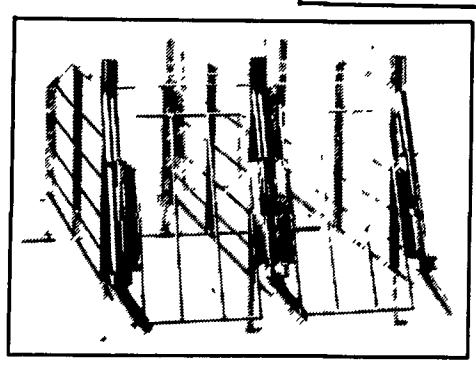
PIG SAVER "DUTCH CRATE"

Developed through testing in our research farms the goal was to develop a crate that nearly eliminates crushing, due to lay one, unmatched durability and be easy to work around. All this has been achieved by a unique gravity flipgrail that forces sows to lie down slowly and using stainless steel for rear doors and legs, proven horizontal and solid steel rod construction. All this at a reasonable cost. Crate also can be installed on an angle.



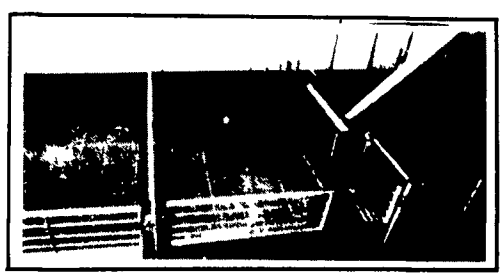


CONFINEMENT STALL

Developed recently in our R&D farm. Our goals were convenience, safety and durability. The low back and flat top rails are easy to reach over with no sharp edges. Stainless steel rear legs and front feet along with solid steel horizontal rods through punched uprights provide the strongest, most durable stall ever produced by Tri-County (21"-24" O.C. x 86")

NURSERY PENNING

Nursery penning has been improved by the use of an optional solid stainless steel panel on the front gates which keeps walkways clean. Stainless steel verticals on penning eliminates corrosion where penning attaches to the floor. Stainless steel drinker pipes & mounting brackets also increase durability.



FINISHING PENNING

Optional stainless steel verticals and fasteners offer improved durability over other similar types of penning. Loop and flapper latch arrangement eliminates the use of drop pins. Stainless steel fence line feeders provide excellent durability and a minimum of waste.

Purina Mills Celebrates 100 Years In Operation

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Like most businesses, it began with one person's dream. William Danforth believed he could make a better feed for horses and mules.

That was the foundation of Purina Mills, Inc. The nation's largest supplier of animal feeds, it now makes thousands of different feed formulations in more than 50 plants throughout the U.S. Its annual sales are approximately $1 billion. The company has earned its reputation as "America's Leader in Animal Nutrition."

Purina Mills is the market leader in developing, manufacturing and marketing animal nutrition products for dairy cattle, beef cattle, hogs and horses, as well as poultry feeds and specialty feeds for rabbits, zoo animals, birds, fish and pets. A subsidiary, PMI Nutrition, supplies dog and cat nutrition products to more than 3,500 dealers. Over the last 100 years the company has manufactured and marketed more than 300 million tons of feed for virtually every animal species.

The familiar Checkerboard trademark, introduced in 1902, has given the company tremendous visibility over the years, says Purina Mills President and Chief Executive Officer, Edward L. McMillan. "We've been able to build that visibility into market leadership through research and product development, the finest distribution network in the industry and customer service," McMillan says.

Research and Product Development

Purina Mills opened a research farm at Gray Summit, Missouri in 1926. Today the almost 1,200-acre facility is among the most respected in animal nutrition science. Purina Mills conducts nutritional and management research there for hogs, beef and dairy cattle, poultry, horse and specialty animals. The company boasts 45 Ph.D. scientists and technicians, the most comprehensive animal nutrition research team in America. In addition, it contracts for research with universities across the U.S. and internationally.

Much of the company's research in the last decade has focused on the relationship between nutrition and animal development. "Animal science is developing animals with the genetic potential for high productivity," explains McMillan. "Our role is to help an animal reach its genetic potential at every stage of its development."

Research has resulted in a new generation of Purina Mills feeds, such as: Lean Generation™ Chow® — to help producers satisfy the demand for leaner pork; Ultimate EXT™ — the most nutrient dense dairy feed ever developed, to increase milk production and improve body condition for dairy cows; Impact™ — developed to provide feedlot cattle with more total digestible nutrients; Equine Senior™ — the first horse feed developed to meet the distinct nutritional needs of older horses.

These products, which are among the most successful in the company's history, are part of complete nutritional programs that help animals use feed ingredients more efficiently.

Product Development

"Our products, programs and knowledge firmly establish Purina Mills as the Number One company in meeting the technological and nutritional demands of

HE'S SAVING UP TO $10 A TON

This dairyman just took a delivery of brewers wet grain from the Miracle Feeds division of Furst-McNess. When he put a sharp pencil to it, he found that each ton of Miracle brewers wet grains could replace 230 pounds of 48 percent soybean meal (@ $250/ton) and 195 pounds of shelled corn (@ $90/ton) making brewers wet grain worth over $35.00/ton in his ration. With the average price of brewers wet grains running at approximately $25.00-$27.00/ton (depending on distance from the brewery) this dairyman has realized that brewers wet grains are an excellent buy versus soybean meal and shelled corn.

And, the dairyman found Miracle brewers wet grain also enhanced his cows' production since it is an excellent source of bypass protein and helps make up for some poor quality forage he is forced to feed this year. It also improved the palatability of his total ration. Brewers wet grains also contain 9 percent fat making it an excellent source for this important nutrient.

Say you're already feeding brewers grains? Maybe you should consider switching to Miracle, where you can get free computerized ration balancing plus forage testing to get the most out of your feeding program.

Just call toll-free 800-888-0230.

American Forage/Grassland Council To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

DR. JOHN E. BAYLOR
Historian, American Forage And Grassland Council

World War II was in full swing. During the previous decade the U.S. had gone through a major economic depression and a devastating drought. The demands on U.S. agriculture to produce more food and feed, and at a lower cost, was never greater. This was the setting in 1942 as several agriculture experiment station workers at a meeting in New Jersey considered the challenges before them. One possibility, they believed, was to form an organization consisting of individuals in agricultural research and agricultural industry who were interested in the potentials of grassland farming "as a fundamental thesis in the economic welfare of agriculture and our country."

It took time for the idea to gel. Over the next two years, and with much deliberation, it was agreed that if a group of interested leaders in agricultural research, the farm press, farm equipment manufacturers and the makers of farm facilities could put together the factual data already available and continue to generate new data through research, grassland farming could vastly lower the costs and increase the production of agriculture. Then at a meeting in Cleveland, Ohio, in July 1944, as a result of the earlier discussions, the Joint Committee on Grassland Farming (JCGF) was born. Its mission was to coordinate research in the production, methods, equipment, facilities, preservation and utilization of forage crops.

One of the early objectives of JCGF was to serve as a central clearing house in the gathering of data on all aspects of grassland agriculture and "to release and disseminate clear information to the farm public on proven methods for the economic handling of all kinds of forage crops." Another was to assist industry in the development of equipment for producing, processing, handling and storing of forage crops on various sized farms.

During the mid-to-late 40s published information on grassland farming was scarce. But the need was great. Thus, during the first decade of its existence a major thrust of the young organization was to collect, analyze, and organize data for publication in a form that could be used by producers. And by 1947 its first publication Green Fields Are Gold came off the press. Over the next several years more than one quarter million copies were printed and distributed. By 1955 three other publications, The Grassland-Livestock Handbook, The Dollars and Cents of Grass Silage, and Grasslands of the United States and Their Improvement were developed and released with a total of over 2 million copies distributed.

In 1957, after years of study, the committee was reorganized, its by-laws revised and its name officially changed to the American Grassland Council (AGC). And ten years later in 1968, with broader programs and a changing image the organization again changed its name to better describe its over-all purpose. Its new name, and the one it still carries; the American Forage and Grassland Council (AFGC).

Prior to 1960 the Council was a small nationwide organization made up primarily of dedicated grasslanders in both the public and industry sectors. In 1960, however, the Pennsylvania Grassland Council was formed, the first state council organized in the U.S. Its motto "Industry, Farmer, Scientist — Working Together for a Sounder Grassland Program." The Pennsylvania council affiliated with the American Grassland Council in 1963 and, thus, producers became an important part of AGC. By 1993, 33 states or provincial councils had affiliated with the American Forage and Grassland Council with a total membership approaching 6,000.

AFGC's Golden Anniversary Conference will be held March 7-9, 1993 at the Lancaster Host Resort, Lancaster, Pa. This three-day event is expected to attract several hundred grasslands, both public and industry, including many producers, from throughout the U.S. and Canada. The program will include a full day Producer Day on Monday, March 7, with Dean Kleckner, President of the American Farm Bureau, as the keynote speaker along with a Forage Spokesman's program including outstanding producers from throughout the U.S. The Tuesday and Wednesday schedules include scientific and applied presenta-

ADADC To Hold N.Y. Dairy Princess Pageant

SYRACUSE N.Y.—Don't miss the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council's (ADADC) annual meeting and State Dairy Princess Pageant scheduled for Tuesday, February 22, at the Sheraton Inn, Liverpool, New York.

This year's annual meeting will start with registration at 11:00 a.m. followed by a festive luncheon and informative presentation from ADADC communications, consumer promotions and nutrition educations departments. Video highlights will give attendees a first hand look at how producer contributions were used to promote the importance of dairy products and increase dairy sales in 1993.

Attendees will get a behind-the-scenes look at what it took to film a New York state cheese commercial in Rochester using more than 150 consumers, and three "Breakfast in School is Cool" commercials filmed on-site at an elementary school in Elizabeth, New Jersey. The final product of all these commercials will be shown. At 2:30 p.m., the business meeting will get underway with a prize drawing and presentation of service awards followed by a brief financial update. Included in this session will be presentations from the United Dairy Industry Association and ADADC's advertising agency.

Following the annual meeting, the 31st New York State Dairy Princess Pageant activities will commence at 5:30 p.m. with a milk punch reception, followed by a banquet and coronation of the 1994 State Princess.

Luncheon and banquet reservations are necessary and can be made by calling ADADC at (315) 472-9143. The annual meeting registration is free; banquet tickets for the princess pageant are $15 per person and must be prepaid. The Sheraton Inn is located off exit 37 of the New York State Thruway.

CATTLE FEEDER'S DAY

The Lancaster County Cattle Feeder's Day is scheduled for Tuesday, February 1 at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster.

The theme for this year's event is "Cattle Feeding — From Start to Finish." Featured speakers this year will be Tom Brink, director of market research for Cattle-Fax of Denver, Colo. and Dr. David Porter Price, a feedlot consultant from Las Cruces, N.M.

Brink joined the Cattle-Fax staff in 1988 and is responsible for supervising research efforts and analysis of cattle supply/demand trends. He was educated in agricultural economics and reproductive physiology at Kansas State University. Brink will address "The Future of Feedlot Profitability."

Price is a ruminant nutritionist with degrees from New Mexico State, Texas A & M, and Oregon State Universities. Since 1982, his feedlot and range cattle consulting business has taken him across the USA, into Canada, Mexico, and countries overseas. At Cattle Feeder's Day, Price will offer "Insight on Feedlot Rations" and "Tips for Starting Cattle on Feed."

Additional topics and speakers will be Penn State Ruminant Nutritionist Dr. Harold Harpster, presenting "Options for Changing Cost of Gain" and his coworker Dr. Bill Henning, extension meats specialist, explaining the workings of the "USDA Grading System." Reggie Reynolds, executive secretary of the Virginia Cattleman's Association, will offer advice on "Purchasing Quality Feeders," an important step to success, and Dave Ivan, Pennsylvania Beef Council executive director, will discuss "Your Checkoff Dollars at Work."

Anyone interested in cattle feeding is invited to attend. No reservations are necessary. Lunch tickets may be purchased at the door until 11:30 a.m. In addition to the formal program, there will be an opportunity to inspect commercial exhibits and visit other cattlemen. The event will begin at 8:30 a.m. with exhibit visitation and the program starts promptly at 9:30 a.m.

The meeting, conducted by Penn Sate Cooperative Extension, concludes at 3 p.m. with a question and answer session. Our sponsors for this year's event are Dauphin Deposit Bank, Hamilton Bank, Keystone Farm Credit, and the Pennsylvania Beef Council. For additional information, call Chester D. Hughes, (717) 394-6851.

Swine Satellite Short Courses

Penn State Cooperative Extension now has satellite broadcasting capabilities at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center and will be presenting a program by Purdue University entitled "Improving Swine Production Efficiency."

The final session of this short course will be held from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. on January 25 in the conference room at the Farm and Home Center. Topics for this session will include "Strategies for Small Producers" and Marketing and Purchasing Co-ops presented by Gilbert Hollis, University of Illinois and Steve Webel, Illinois State University; "Trouble-Shooting Ventilation Problems" by Larry Jacobson, University of Minnesota and Steve Pohl, South Dakota State University; and "How Artificial Insemination (AI) Works For Me," a panel discussion with Wayne Singleton, Purdue University; Delmar Guard, West Lafayette, Ind.; and Cammy Skilles, Delphi, Ind.

The telecourse is sponsored by the Purdue University Cooperative Extension Service and is supported by Pfizer Inc., Pig Improvement Co. Inc., Indiana Pork Producers Association, National Pork Producers Council, and Moorman Manufacturing Co.

A Pork Quality Assurance Level III Certification Satellite Program will be aired February 17 from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

The program is made possible by the National Pork Board in association with the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Producers, veterinarians, and industry experts will take part in a review of Levels I and II, the 10 Critical Control Points in Level III, and overview of Federal recordkeeping regulations, and yearly recertification information. The satellite broadcast will feature a new video incorporating many practical on-farm applications of Level III.

Preregistration is required by calling the Lancaster Cooperative Extension Office, (717) 394-6851.

Lambing Time Management

The Lancaster County Sheep and Wool Grower's Association and Penn State Cooperative Extension present "Lambing Time Management," featuring Dr. Don Bailey with Dr. Woody Lane.

This program is an outstanding series of videos with step-by-step instructions on all the critical procedures that you need to know during lambing season. This is when many questions often arise.

Veterinarian Don Bailey and nutritionist Woody Lane, with more than 60 years of combined practical experience, have spent two years producing this video series. What is presented will help you save lambs whether you are a beginner or an experienced sheep professional. Don Bailey has been a featured speaker at the Keystone Shepherd's Symposium and has probably taught more USA sheep owners the ins and outs of successful lambing than anyone alive.

The final two segments of the video series will be presented at 7:30 p.m. at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center as follows:

- January 24 — Tape #2 "Lambing," covers sheep obstetrics, difficult births (malpresentations), unassisted lambing, and reviving newborn lambs in distress.
- January 31 — Tape #3 "The Post-Lambing Period," includes clip dip and strip, correcting teeth, tubing, caring for chilled lambs, docking and castration, mastitis, entropion, and nutrition.

Don Bailey is a veterinarian known internationally for his knowledge on sheep health. He earned his DVM from Colorado State University. In 1951, he moved to Roseburg, Oregon and founded Bailey Veterinary Clinic, which remains a bustling place with an excellent local reputation. Bailey has been the president of the Oregon Sheep Grower's Association, president of the American

Purina Mills Seeks Oldest Horse

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Horses are living longer than ever. That's good news for the owners of the 6.5 million horses in the United States because older can be better in a horse. Now, there's a contest to show how.

An estimated 10 percent of American horses are now more than 20 years old. That number will grow as life expectancy increases. These "senior horses" are often calmer and more predictable, and make great companions for children, the physically challenged and inexperienced riders.

Owners can share stories about their "over 20" horses in a contest to find the oldest horse in the U.S. Five winners will receive a year's supply of Equine Senior horse feed, developed for older horses by the contest's sponsor, Purina Mills, Inc.

Stories must be 50 words or less, and should include a photo and the horse's current age. Entries should be sent to: Oldest Horse Contest, Purina Mills, Inc., P.O. Box 66812, St. Louis, MO 63166.

The deadline for entries is February 28, 1994. For more information, owners can call 1-800-227-8941 between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Central Standard Time.

Five stories will be selected. Along with a year's supply (one ton) of Equine Senior, winners and their horses also will receive national recognition, including being featured on Equine Senior bags, and national recognition in major horse magazines.

Founded in 1894, Purina Mills is the largest supplier of animal feed in the United States.

ADC District 12 Meets

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Members of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's District 12 met Thursday at the Quarryville Fairgrounds for its annual banquet and meeting.

Despite a severe winter storm and an electricity shortage which had caused many offices to close early or close altogether, about 200 members of the cooperative showed up for the event.

The purpose of the banquet and meeting was to review the past year's business, elect new officers and delegates, and to present awards.

Because of the weather, scheduled speaker Robert Dever, general manager, was unable to attend. Jim Barnett, director of ADC member relations, who lives in nearby Strasburg, spoke instead.

According to Barnett, there have been a lot of changes in the buyers of milk in recent years. He used the example of ADC's former subsidiary Penn Dairies, which was sold less than five years ago to Greens, which sold it to Crowley's, then to Kemp's, which sold it to its current owner, Wessan. Wessan is a Dutch conglomerate.

He said his point is that the cooperative now sells its milk to a European-owned business.

Another buyer is Johanna Farms, which is owned by Labatt's, a maker of beverages. Labatt's also owns the professional baseball team, the Tronoto Blue Jays.

What it all means, according to Barnett, is that in order for a cooperative to stay competitive, it must be a strong and dependable source of milk, he said.

Barnett also talked about the dairy promotion checkoff which was re-authorized by dairymen this past fall. He said that not only is that helping to keep the milk demand up, a new processor-promotion fund, based on a 20-cent per hundredweight processed checkoff, is to start-up in February and those monies are to be used to promote fluid milk sales.

As milk production increases, there is a continuous need to expand markets for it, Barnett said.

In other news, two awards were presented in honor of 25-years of cooperative membership.

Receiving an award were Lloyd and LeRoy Welk, of Welk Acres, in Quarryville.

The two have a partnership and currently farm 375 acres and milk 90 registered Holsteins. When they started with the cooperative they milked 30 cows.

Hope Valley Farm, also of Quarryville, was honored for 25 years with ADC. Kenneth DeLong, in partnership with his brothers Gerry and Jim, received the award on behalf of the farm. He said that combined they milk 104 grade Holsteins and farm 500 acres. When his father Clair first started with ADC, the family milked 44 Holsteins.

Also honored was Curtis Akers, director of District 12. Akers received a quality premium award for going 12 months in a row and earning quality premiums on the milk.

There are two levels of quality premiums offered; a 10-cent per hundredweight, and a 20-cent per hundredweight additional payment.

The premiums are based on testing of the milk and the outstanding quality determined from those tests.

In other business, the Quarryville Local elected Lloyd Welk as its president, and P. Robert Wenger as its vice president. Herb Graybill was elected secretary-treasurer, and also to serve as a delegate.

Other delegates elected include R. Charles Groff, Randy Clark, Phil Rutt, James Krantz, and Lloyd Sensenig.

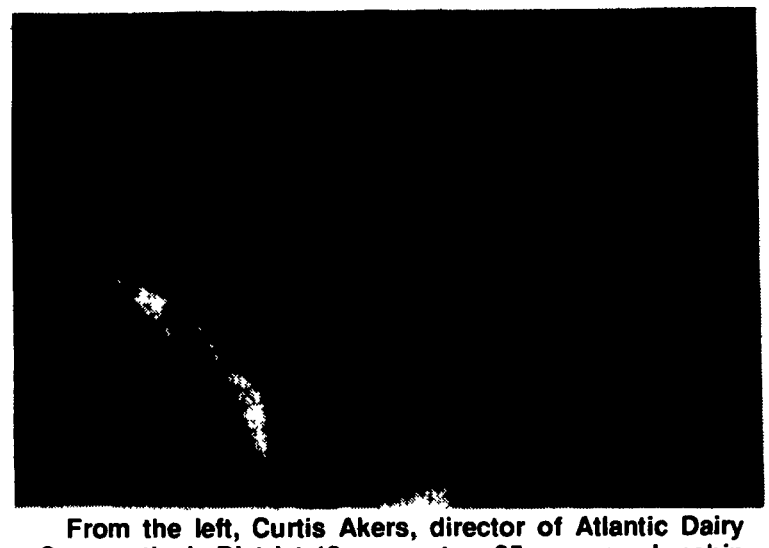
Altnerates include Timothy Metzler, Robert Kreider, Ed Harnish, Dave DeLong, Willie Frey, and James Kreider.

Elected to the hauling committee for three-year terms were Robert Groff, Vernon Umble, and Charles Rohrer.

Members of the Strasburg/Paradise Local elected Dale Hershey as its president, and Alan Rohrer as vice president. J. Ray Rank was elected secretary/treasurer.

Delegates elected were Park Ranck Jr., John Coleman, and Nevin Hershey. Alternate delegates were Tom Lapp, Ben Clark and Marlin Beiler.

From the left, Curtis Akers, director of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's District 12 presents a 25-year-membership award to brothers Lloyd and LeRoy Welk, of Welk Acres. Akers, while presenting the award, is also a recipient of a quality premium award for District 12.



From the left, Curtis Akers, director of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's District 12, presents a 25-year-membership award to Kenneth DeLong.

Beef Board Elects Committee Member

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Ralph McGregor, a dairy producer from York County and one of Pennsylvania's two representatives on the 111-member national Beef Board, was recently elected to the national operating committee.

The 20-member operating committee acts on behalf of the Beef Board and state beef councils in allocating funds for programs conducted on behalf of the $1 per head beef checkoff program.

"We're extremely fortunate that our state is represented on this notable committee," said David Ivan, executive director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council. "This represents only the second time that a producer from Pennsylvania has been selected to serve on the operating committee."

Paul Espy, a cattle feeder from Tyrone, also previously served on the operating committee.

As a member of the operating committee, McGregor will have a vote in final appropriation of the Beef Board's more than $45 million annual budget to specific demand-building programs, such as advertising, retail promotions, and research activities. The members of the committee represent all geographical regions of the country and volunteer their time on behalf of the industry.

Purina Mills Celebrates 100 Years In Operation

today's pork, beef, dairy and poultry producers," says McMillan. "More than half the products Purina Mills sells today have been developed in the last ten years. That's because animals themselves have changed.

"Compare a picture of a blue-ribbon cow, pig or horse of 30 years ago with today's animal. In every species, animals are larger, stronger and more specialized. We must continue to improve our products if we want to continue to serve our customers needs," McMillan says.

"Our goal is always to have the best nutrition available today, and to learn more about nutrition and develop the new best products and programs for tomorrow," he says.

National Distribution

Purina Mills is the only feed manufacturer to offer a full product line nationwide. The company operates 54 feed plants, or mills, throughout the country. The oldest and largest, in Fort Worth, Texas, turned 75 years old in 1993. The newest, in Orrville, Ohio, was dedicated just seven months ago. The mills are a driving force in their local economies. Much of the raw ingredients, such as corn, soybeans, wheat and minerals, are purchased locally from farmers and other suppliers.

Operating many mills is more efficient for the company, McMillan says, because market conditions are so different throughout the country.

"Feeds are blended for the types of animals and the individual conditions in that area," McMillan explains. "A beef cow in west Texas needs a different blend of feed than one in south Florida.

"Manufacturing is computerized," McMillan continues. "Everything at the mill, from grinding and mixing grain to adding micronutrients to filling the bags is automated. Specifications and tolerances are at least as precise as those for human foods. We'll continue to upgrade existing mills, and open new mills where we can fill a market need," he says.

Customer Service

There are fewer people directly involved in agriculture today in the United States than there were 200 years ago, McMillan says. Yet, today's producers of livestock need more service and support than ever before. That's why Purina Mills continues to support its huge network of more than 4,000 independent dealers.

"Independent dealers provide valuable insights about local trends and conditions," McMillan says. "In return we provide them with a full range of products and support that allows them to give their customers superior service."

That support comes from more than 410 sales, marketing and technical personnel, including the industry's largest group of researchers and veterinarians. The company has recently strengthened its line-up of beef, dairy and pork specialists. It now has more than 30 field consultants with Ph.D. degrees across the U.S.

Looking Ahead

When asked to predict how the company will look in its second century, McMillan spells out a clear vision: Purina Mills will remain a leader in research and product development. However, information and technology will be just as important, and international partnerships for Purina Mills will prove important in the future.

"We will have customers that want something other than our products," explains McMillan. "A herd owner may need management assistance. A veterinarian may want information on nutritional disorders in exotic pets."

International opportunities are bright, adds McMillan. The company's PMI Feeds subsidiary is expanding marketing around the world. "There's an increasing need throughout the world for more information about animal nutrition. We may choose to market our feeds and food only in the United States, but market our research and knowledge through joint ventures with other food producers throughout the world," he says.

But the most important "customer" for Purina Mills will be the food consumer. "America's producers of meat, milk and eggs continue to rely on Purina Mills' products, programs and knowledge in order to meet end-consumer demands," McMillan says. "We must produce high quality, safe food. We need to do everything we can to make sure food is wholesome and nutritious, and that consumers understand that."

Founded in 1894, Purina Mills is the largest supplier of animal feeds in the United States. Its headquarters are in St. Louis.

Jr. Holstein Convention Offers Advertising Workshop

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The 1994 Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Convention is fast approaching and ticket order deadlines and room reservations need to be made by Jan. 24, according to a recent news release from the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

The Junior Holstein Convention is to run from Feb. 11 through Feb. 13, at the Ramada Inn, in Gettysburg.

As part of the annual convention of junior members, a special workshop is to be presented on Saturday, Feb. 12, from 9 a.m., to 2:30 p.m., on developing advertisements as part of a marketing strategy.

The workshop is to be led by Janice Keene, who has experience in advertising and the dairy industry.

Currently director of business development for Dudnyk Advertising, in Horsham, some of her former positions include working with the Ohio Holstein Association as director of promotion, working as information director for the American Guernsey Association; and she held positions with the Elanco Animal Health Marketing Associate and Keene Consulting.

All Junior members are encouraged to attend the workshop and are asked to bring two things to help with workshop participation — an example of an effective ad from any source, whether cow related or not; and information to create an advertisement, such as a cow picture, records, show winnings, farm pictures, etc.

For more information, call the Holstein Association at (814) 234-0364.

This milk truck drives out the farm lane after a pick-up at Elam Kauffman's farm. Farmers In The Northeast Suffer Through Sub-Zero Weather

And then, in a fashion to apportion the use of the electricity, the utilities implemented a "rolling blackout" through the Harrisburg region on Wednesday.

On Thursday, the entire state government shut down in an effort to conserve engergy, and because of the statewide storm conditions.

Due to conservation measures, a rolling blackout that had been scheduled for Lancaster and Lebanon counties for Wednesday was canceled.

However, even on Thursday night, roads were still being considered extremely dangerous and sections were still being closed because of ice and accidents.

The storm came on the heels of some earlier snowfall and cold which had started just prior to the opening of the 1994 Farm Show, and continued through the week. The weekend had been cold, but seasonal.

From Monday through Thursday, farmers and agribusinesses throughout the state were working to open lanes and repair frozen water pipes.

The District 12 of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, representing dairy producers in the southern end of Lancaster County held its annual banquet Thursday at the Quarryville Fairgrounds, despite the conditions.

According to David Kleintop, field represenative for ADC, the banquet is always held no matter what the weather, because of the proximity of its members, and because their modes of travel — heavy duty vehicle or horse and buggy — enable most to attend.

However, Kleintop told the group that they have to make sure their farm lanes are cleared and cindered for the milk trucks. He said that while the 10-wheel rigs don't have much problem in most of the rough places, the cooperative only has two of them to serve the area.

He said that in order to return to a more orderly schedule of pickup, all lanes must be made accessible by a regular rig. He said that after so many days after a snow, if a truck can't get into a farm, it will go onto the next farm that has a lane open, rather than spend all the extra driving time and mileage to reroute tankers for one farm.

He said that drivers — who faced electrical blackouts in Philadelphia and being forced to wait in long lines to unload, spending hours tied up in accident-laced, snail-paced traffic — were beginning to lose patience with the frustrations of the storm.

According to Jim Barnett, director of member relations for ADC, the storm has presented a number of problems for the cooperative, but nothing that has been insurmountable. On Thursday he said it was too early to start talking about dumping milk.

The state Department of Agriculture was open Tuesday and part of Wednesday. However, on Thursday and Friday, all state offices were closed, except for state offices in Adams County, which were reopened as of midnight Thursday.

While the agriculture department isn't directly involved in storm emergencies, Boyd Wolff, state secretary of agriculture did recommend that farmers make sure their animals have adequate accessible water, shelter and perhaps extra feed.

Greg Solt, an extension agent in Northampton County, said Thursday that farmers in his area have been "scrambling" to keep water pipes open, some even resorting to using electric welders to thaw out pipes.

"Animals are not suffering. Out farmers are keeping up with the problems."

However, he said the cold more than snow has been the main culprit. He said, "Pipes down supposedly 36 inches are freezing. One man in his 50s said that a pipe which froze had never frozen before and it was put in (the ground) by his father."

Solt said the snow may help protect alfalfa overwinter, because it's insulative properties should keep the ground from heaving. But he said he wasn't certain that would be the case.

As far at the milk trucks in his area, Solt said, "I think the trucks have been getting around. I think those drivers are more dedicated than the postmen. They just risk life and limb to get that milk out. Plus they come prepared, with chains on trucks and everything."

Also a sign of how slowed down agribusiness has been, there were very few livestock auctions held or reported this week, because of the weather and poor attendance.

There were at least 10 sales not held specifically because of the weather. More than 10 failed to provide an auction report, either because they offices were closed or because there were too few animals offered for sale.

According to Lynn Rossi, who has been working for Lancaster Farming for nine years reporting livestock and commodity markets, she has never seen a week in which so many markets have been closed.

"All markets experienced reduced commodities, if they took place at all. I have never seen it like this, not even during the blizzard (last March)."

That blizzard was supposedly the snow storm of the century for the state. According to reports, the weather this week can be expected to also be on the record books.

Somerset County

Barbara (Mrs. Lewis) Berkley at Berlin in Somerset County said they have had temperatures down to 25 degrees below zero, and high winds.

The roads have been closed off and on, but the milk truck got through. Last year in the March snows, the milk truck was stuck for three days near their farm, so this year's weather is rated "better." So far.

The cold does work hardships on farmers, but Ms. Berkley said farmers are resilient and take things as they come.

"We brought a few of the calves inside from the hutches because it was so cold," she said. "But mostly, we are just working to get the men who help us into the farm through the snow, and the milk out on the truck."

According to other published reports this week, farmer David Svonavec, of Somerset County found two new lambs in the barn. They were frozen stiff and seemed dead, but the family used hair dryers and heating pads. The lambs revived, were dressed in children's sweaters and returned to the barn.

Blair County

John Morrow, Tyrone, in Blair County said they haven't been away from the farm much this week, but because they have had no disruption of electric power, the dairy operation has continued uninterrupted.

"We have some heating cables around water pipes and heat lamps in water pump wells so we are surviving," Morrow said. "We live along the road so the milk truck has been able to get here."

Bedford County

Larry Snyder, Imler, in Bedford County said even with the 20-below temperature, they haven't had any real problems with the dairy. The milk truck has made all the pick-up stops, and everything is about routine. Snyder said, actually cold weather helps production because the cows like cold better than warm.

Lawrence County

Arlene (Mrs. Richard) Martin at Volant in Lawrence County said that while she and her husband have sold their cows, they drive milk trucks and know some of the major problems farmers in the county are facing.

For example, both milk truck drivers and milk testing supervisors have found farmers who have not been able to milk on time.

Silo unloaders and barn cleaners are frozen.

Water pipes are broken, and the business of farming is a struggle on some farms right now. Some farmers are concerned about how to get the cows milked and fed.

While Ms. Martin said they were experiencing a heat wave of zero degrees on Thursday, she said the difference between the snows of 1993 and 1994 is that last year they came in March when spring was just around the corner.

"We are looking for the January thaw," she said.

Wyoming County To Hold Lambing School

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — The annual Mid-Winter Lambing School, sponsored by the Wyoming County Sheep and Wool Producers Association (PDA), will be held at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture building in Tunkhannock on Saturday morning, January 29, from 9:30 A.M. until 11:30 A.M.

The PDA building is located on Highway Rt. 92 adjacent to Bartron John Deere and Campos Trucking.

The program has been developed to meet the needs of novice and experienced shepherds and is open to sheep farmers throughout the entire area.

The 1994 curriculum will center on the role of the ewe with focus on health maintenance, disease prevention, diagnosis and treatment, and flock management.

The program will begin promptly at 9:30 a.m. with a video, "Introduction To Flock Health." This is a "Winrock International" production and made available for this occasion by the department of animal science of Penn State.

Dr. D'Alessandro's topic, "Metabolic diseases," will zero in on such problems as white muscle disease, pregnancy toxemia, hypocalcemia, and other disorders associated with the lambing ewe. Increasingly restrictive FDA regulations and scrutiny make it imperative that producers keep informed about approved preventive and treatment measures. The format will be interactive, with ample opportunity for questions and audience participation.

Up-to-the-minute information concerning Green Valley Lamb, Pennsylvania lamb marketing cooperative, will also be available at this meeting. This promising new venture has been born out of two years of intensive study, producer surveys, and market research by a committee appointed by the Pennsylvania Sheep and Lamb Marketing Board. The goal is to provide a structure through which lamb producers can market lambs in a more advantageous and profitable manner than through the conventional system.

For more information, contact Victor W. Decker, president of the Wyoming County Sheep and Wool Producers Association, at (717) 833-2486.

Wenger Announces Re-Election Bid

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Senator Noah W. Wenger, Republican Caucus Secretary, announced his candidacy for re-election as the state senator representing Pennsylvania's 36th Senatorial District, which covers the northern part of Lancaster County.

Senator Wenger, a state senator since 1983, was first elected in 1982 and re-elected again in 1986 and 1990. Before his election to the Pennsylvania Senate, Wenger served three terms in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives.

As Republican Caucus Secretary, a position of leadership in the Pennsylvania Senate, Wenger plays a major role in the Executive NOminations process, involving confirmation of nominations made by the Governor for the various boards and commissions throughout the state. The Caucus position also directly involves Wenger in the policy-making decisions for the Senate Republican Caucus which affect not only the 36th Senatorial District but also the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Farmers In The Northeast Suffer

Cumberland County

Sue Beshore, New Cumberland, in Cumberland County, said they didn't have rural mail for a few days, but all in all, they have been very fortunate. The most trouble came not on the farm but with frozen fuel lines on the dairy's milk trucks. That caused farm milk pick-ups to be late. But the Beshores lost no milk.

"The winter weather is hard on people and animals, but both have been coping well, Sue said. "We have been lucky. We give the calves in the hutches extra energy, but they really are doing well in spite of the cold weather.

"Sometimes it would be nice to just stop and relax for a little while. But on the farm you must keep moving to get all the work done, especially with the extra work caused by the weather."

There were other damages reported around the state.

York County

Part of the roof of a beef-heifer fattening operation in York County, Sunday Farm, collapsed under the weight of the snow.

According to June Sunday, who with husband Charles, operates the farm, the weight of the snow caused a portion of the 70-foot barn to fall and 16 animals out of 150 were lost.

As of presstime, she said that the rest are doing well, though the automatic feeding system was also broken and the animals are being fed from a trench.

"We're getting by, but it's not the ideal situation," she said.

Lancaster County

According to John Schwartz, Lancaster County Extension director, there have been similar incidents in his area.

Schwartz said most poultry facilities have backup power available in the event of a "rolling blackout," of which several have taken place throughout many facilities in the state. The big problem is on the curtain-sided houses, of which frozen air leaks can occur, forcing excessive heat and energy use.

He said he has heard several reports of barns falling down because of the heavy weights caused by snow and ice.

According to reports in the Lancaster morning newspaper, a barn owned by Dave Sweigart in Elizabethtown collapsed Monday night. Sweigart spent two days digging out his 2,600 market hogs. Luckily, only about a dozen were killed.

In the evening newspaper, The New Era, reports indicated that a warehouse roof owned by the A.H. Hoffman Plant Food Company in Landisville collapsed. Also, the shed roof of Abram and Ruby Bollinger's farm, Lititz, collapsed Monday night, killing two Holstein bull calves and injuring several more.

Berks County

On Monday night, frozen snow, sleet, and ice collapsed the truss barn of beef farmer Willard Dietrich, in Kempton, Berks County. The steer facility was built in 1978 at a cost of about $7,000.

Two steers were lost in the event. Willard and his family used a front-end loader to haul out the carcasses and clear away the debris. As of Thursday afternoon, the Dietrichs were awaiting an appraiser to get an estimate of damage.

There have been reports and indications of similar steer facilities collapsing around the state. Particularly susceptible have been the "lean-to" barns built to provide weather protection in the feedlot. Some aren't sturdy enough to withstand the heavily loads from heavily piled snow and ice.

One of the biggest problems other than collapsing buildings that beef producers have to face is shelter for the animals from the bitter cold and also a constant source of water.

Right now, sheep producers are in the middle of the lambing season.

The subzero temperatures are proving "very, very hard on newborn lambs," especially in outside facilities, according to Joe Vogel, Kempton, Berks County, who is president of the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association.

Those who lamb outside could face a 50- to 60-percent mortality rate right now, according to the producer.

Vogel said he heard of a farm in Greene County where one of the ewes, after it had lambed, suffered with a frozen udder and couldn't nurse the lambs. "She had to be put under a heat lamp," said Vogel.

The biggest problem sheep producers face is keeping their flocks warm and well-fed.

Adams County

Father west, Ray Grimes, of McKnightstown, in Adams County, is president of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, and said the biggest problem he's seen in his area is making sure the streams running through pastures are not frozen solid.

Grimes raises Charolais cattle in a 125-brood cow/calf operation. He said he went into his field with a crowbar to beat a hole in the ice of the stream and then enlarge it for his steers.

"Everybody has been having their problems with this cold weather," he said. "We've been trying to keep them as comfortable as possible."

Grimes said it is important for cattle producers to make sure the cattle are kept comfortable and try to do all they can to stop drafts.

Luckily, unlike last year, the producers aren't at calving season. Last year, during the Blizzard of '93, calving season was well under way.

Cold has also been a factor there. Temperatures reached 16-below in Adams County early Wednesday morning, according to Grimes.

During this kind of cold weather, according to the beef producer, cattle use up about 25 percent more feed, and roughage needs to be increased.

Big Winter Event

show presents all this, and much more.

"We at the New York Farm Show care about this state's number one industry — agriculture," said Scott Grigor, New York Farm Show manager. "Farmers who want to keep up on the latest piece of equipment, tillage management or whatever their farm operation needs, can find it at New York Farm Show."

New to this year's show will be special displays on residue management, sponsored by the New York State Soil Conservation Service. This display will be combined with exhibits of the latest equipment to manage crop residue.

Expect a lot of excitement when the 5th annual Toy Show Auction kicks off at 6 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 25, in the Arts and Home Center building. Proceeds from the sale of more than 400 farm toys benefit the FFA Alumni Scholarship Fund and the Hamilton FFA chapter. Last year's auction raised $3,200 for these worthy causes. Once again, auctioneer Steve Wright of Sidekick Auction in Trumansburg will set a fast pace as he sells four toys a minute.

These are just a few of the exciting events you can expect at this year's New York Farm Show Tickets are available free through New York state farm equipment dealers or by sending a self-addressed, stamped, legal envelope to New York Farm Show, P.O. Box 3470, Syracuse, NY 13220.

Despite the demands of his practice and speaking schedule, Don has operated a ranch in Douglas County with up to 2000 commercial ewes. He raises a purebred flock of 200 suffolk ewes on his home farm in Roseburg.

Woody Lane is a ruminant nutritionist and sheep specialist living in Douglas County, Oregon. Woody earned his Ph.D. from Cornell University in animal nutrition, worked six years as the extension sheep specialist in Wisconsin, and two years as an animal scientist with the Allegheny Highlands Project in West Virginia. After moving to Oregon, Woody organized popular evening courses on sheep production and livestock nutrition at Umpqua Community College.

In addition to speaking at local national magazines, Woody has developed his own independent consulting service, Lane Sheep Services, keeping him current with local ranchers and helping them with their sheep nutrition and management.

Feel free to attend one or all sessions. Have your questions answered in the heart of lambing season! For more information, call (717) 394-6851.

Discover AMERICA'S Alfalfa AGGRESSOR

The extra cut variety

Aggressor withstands aggressive cutting, which is exactly what alfalfa growers pushing their varieties to the limit require for more yield and quality. A research study started in 1989 measured variety persistence under aggressive cutting schedules. Each variety was cut five times per year in this North Central study.

Aggressor came out on top!

Percent stand survival

AGGRESSOR	60%
FUNKS 2841	40%
PIONEER BRAND 5364	35%

FORTRESS 15%

Frequent cutting requires high disease and insect resistance — Aggressor delivers:

- HR Phytophthora
- HR Bacterial wilt
- R Verticillium wilt
- HR Fusarium wilt
- HR Anthracnose
- R Leafhopper yellowing

Plus — Aggressor fights Aphanomcyes — found where Phytophthora root rot and Pythium 'damping off' occur.

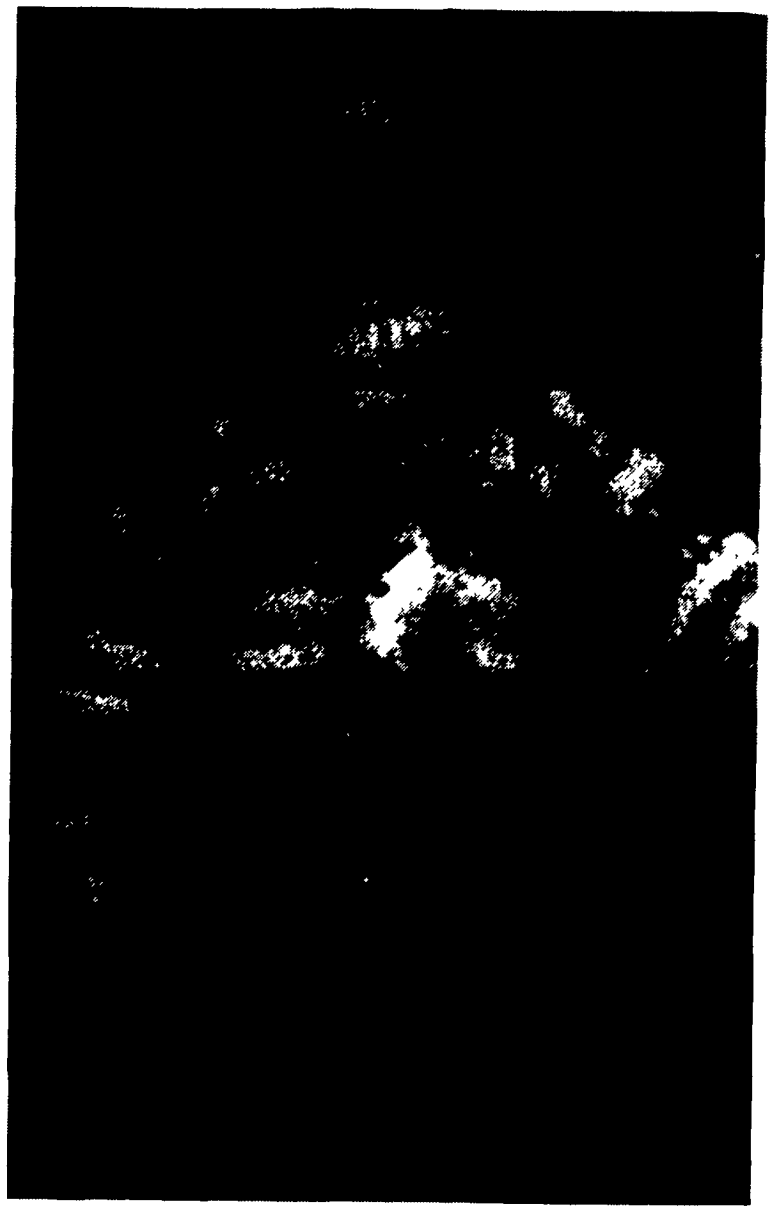
AgriGene Seed Research

Katy and her parents, Lewis and Gail Biddle, raise 22 registered goats and 12 registered Belgium horses on their Centre County farm.



Katy Biddle, the Pa. Dairy Goat Association Youth Representative, credits goat milk for saving her life. She wants to share her knowledge about goat's milk and other aspects of the goat industry with others.

Homestead Notes

Goats Save Katy Biddle's Life

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

OAK HALL (Centre Co.) — It's understandable that Katy Biddle is probably the most qualified teen-ager to wear the banner proclaiming her the Pennsylvania Dairy Goat Association Youth Representative. She owes a lot to the goat industry. Goats saved her life.

Actually, goats produced the milk that saved her life.

According to Katy's parents, Lewis and Gail Biddle, Katy was constantly sick during the first three years of her life — so sick that she almost died.

Pediatricians were puzzled. They could not diagnose the reason that Katy was unable to keep food down.

Finally, a family friend suggested they give Katy goat's milk, which has smaller fat goubules and is easier to digest than cow's milk.

"We fed Katy goat's milk and from then on, Katy took off," Gail said. "Even her pediatrician is a firm believer in drinking goat's milk."

Goat milk continues to be a staple in the Biddle family, which includes Todd, 22, and Jennifer, 21.

The family raises 22 registered goats on their 75-acre Oak Hall farm. Of the Nubian, Alpine, and Sannen breeds they raise, Katy prefers Sannen goats.

"They have such neat personalities," she said. Katy names each goat and is responsible to trim the feet, clip the hair, bathe them, complete health checks, test for Tuberculosis, haul manure, and clean cobwebs from the pens. It takes about five minutes to milk each lactating goat.

The goats are homebred with the three bucks on the farm except for one that was bred with AI in order to introduce a new bloodline the past year.

Katy shows goats at summer fairs around the state and at the national show, but not at the State Farm Show because that is where they show Belgium horses. This was the first year, the family was unable to show the 12 Belgium horses that they raise.

"Showing is a lot of work and requires several people," Katy said. "This year my brother could not help because of student teaching responsibilities."

Although she is only 17 years old and a senior at State College High School, Katy landed a job at Penn State College of Agriculture where she works in veal calf research.

This past semester, Katy helped research calf digestability by feeding four different types of feed to select groups of calves. It was Katy's responsibility to feed the calves, collect urine samples, and cook feces for the tests.

That project is not completed although the results of the data has not been analyzed completely. Now Katy is assisting in calf behavior studies.

Katy enjoys animal research so much that she is considering switching from her career choice of agriculture business to research.

Before she enters Penn State as a student this summer, Katy is concentrating on high school studies and activities. She is a member of concert band, president of the FFA chapter, member of the student advisory committee, and a member of the Future Business Leaders of America.

Katy was chosen to represent the goat industry after she and other contestants submitted resumes and appeared before a panel of three judges for questioning.

As the representative for the Dairy Goat Association, Katy performs tasks similar to that of a dairy princess. She promotes goats and goat by-products and appears at public functions to assist with promotional duties.

It is Katy's desire to make people more aware of the usefulness of goats.

"All parts of a goat are useful," she said. "We can eat the meat, get leather from the hide, wool from the hair, and make cheese, yogurt, soap, shampoo, hand lotion, and butter from the milk."

Most importantly, Katy wants people to love goats as much as does. She will always hold a special affinity for those ackward, lovable four-legged creatures that saved her life by providing easily digestible milk.

Did You Know ...

To most people in the United States, milk is synonymous with cows' milk. Yet on a worldwide basis, there are more people who drink milk from goats than any other animal.

Goats' milk has a more easily digestible fat and protein content than cows' milk. Consequently, many people who can not tolerate milk in their diets find that goats' milk is easily digestible. Doctors ofter prescribe goats' milk for those who have allergies or ulcers.

Goat milk is naturally homogenized. The protein value for goats' milk is similar to a cow, but goats' milk does have greater amounts of calcium, vitamin A, riboflavin, niacin, and some B vitamins. Goats' milk is a bit lower in cholesterol also.

There is a large demand for goat milk, especially in large cities where ethnic groups prefer goat milk and specialty items made from it.

Plan To Attend Philadelphia Flower Show

PHILADELPHIA (Philadelphia Co.) — Sea grapes and coconut palms are bathed in a balmy Caribbean breeze. Peeping tree frogs clamor among ficus aerial roots and sing a haunting song as visitors pass through lush tropical foliage and brilliant flowers. "Islands in the Sun" emerges as the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society's most exotic Philadelphia Flower Show centerpiece, March 6-13, 1994 at the Philadelphia Civic Center.

Visitors will pass beneath a 60-foot wide lush jungly overhang of stunning, fantastically shaped flowers exposing the rich horticultural treasures of Puerto Rico and begin a journey through the vast natural beauty of Bermuda and Barbados. Glistening aquamarine water laps against soft pink sand beaches and a gaily painted clapboard cottage dots Bermuda's unspoiled oasis. A virgin scoop of white sand caresses the vivid flora and exotic trees of Barbados and leads visitors on to discover the sunny exotic flavor of "Shipwreck", a fantasy orchid island paradise viewed from behind thundering waterfalls. This multinational extravaganza exposes visitors to a new dimension in gardening with unusual plants and designs never before seen together at the Philadelphia Flower Show.

The lure of the tropics intensifies as fifty-five other vacation retreats, lush beach hideaways and elegant flora-filled landscapes urge visitors on through the largest, most prestigious indoor flower show in the world.

The artistry of famed floral designer and perennial farmer, Renny, debuts in Philadelphia and tantalizes visitors with a Bermuda terrace garden featuring flowering topiaries. Talking flowers take center stage in an otherworldly sculpture garden and a jungle of palms, hibiscus and trumpet vines engulf a Jamaican island oasis. These displays represent the talent of this nation's premiere florists, nurseries and horticultural institutions and set the stage for more than 1500 entries in the Show's Competitive Class categories.

Widely referred to as the Olympic competition of the gardening set, the Flower Show's individual entries of plants, artistic floral designs, miniature settings and room and table arrangements are the trend setting work of more than 700 amateur exhibitors from throughout the region. These displays change frequently throughout the Show's eight day run and are rejudged giving Show visitors a new Flower Show experience each day.

For those seeking the advice of experts, a talented group of accomplished horticulturists, flower arrangers and gardening enthusiasts will conduct free lectures and demonstrations throughout Show week. For visitors who would like to recreate some of the Show's garden scenes at home, 100 vendors in the Show Marketplace offer everything from birdbaths to bonsai; cut flowers to cacti.

The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society's Philadelphia Flower Show will be held March 6-13, at the Philadelphia Civic Center, 34th Street and Civic Center Boulevard. Show hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sundays; 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Tickets are available at the door, $11.50 for adults; $5.75 for children under 12. Advance sale tickets are available through the mail from the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, 325 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, PA 19106-2777, $10.75 for adults; $5.75 for children under 12 (minimum mail order for advance sale is $107.50). For group, travel and accommodation information, please call the 24 hr. Flower Show Infoline at (215) 625-8253.

Dairy Product Flavor Defects Decline

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—For the second consecutive year, the incidence of pronounced flavor defects declined sharply in four of six dairy products evaluated by the Penn State Dairy Product Evalution Team.

"Between July and October 1993, we evaluated more than 100 samples each of cottage cheese, cheddar cheese, butter, vanilla ice cream and strawberry yogurt," says Sidney Barnard, professor of food science in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

The samples were purchased from stores in Pennsylvania and other Middle Atlantic and Northeastern states and were evaluated by two or more trained students and faculty members, using procedures established by the American Dairy Science Association and the American Cultured Dairy Products Institute.

"For the most part, this year's samples improved dramatically," Barnard says. "For instance, last year 55 percent of the cheddar cheese samples had pronounced flavor defects. This year, only 14.6 percent had those defects, an improvement of 73 percent."

In 1992, 37 percent of the strawberry yogurt samples had defects. This year, only 8.2 percent did, an improvement of 87 percent. Twenty-nine percent of last year's vanilla ice cream samples had defects, commpared to 17.8 percent this year.

Cottage cheese samples improved by 47 percent, with 20.2 percent having flavor defects in 1993 compared to 38 percent in 1992. Butter samples improved 23 percent, with 39.8 percent having defects in 1993 compared to 52 percent in 1992.

Barnard believes the decline in pronounced flavor defects of all products except butter stems in part from a Penn State educational program conducted by mail and occasional responses to questions by telephone.

"We have sent evaluations of appearance, color, body, texture and flavor attributes to product manufacturers for several years," Barnard says. "For the past two years, we've sent printed materials describing the attributes, causes, correction of defects and prevention to each manufacturing plant.

"Most dairy product manufacturers have taken action to correct many pronounced flavor defects. As a result, samples evaluated in 1993 show a high level of improvement over those evaluated in 1992.

"However, considerable improvement could be made by butter and cottage cheese manufacturers in the cream and milk they accept," he says. "The flavor improvement would result in greater consumer acceptance of their products." Barnard notes that similar challenges remain for nonfat ice cream and frozen dessert and for nonfat yogurt.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Old dairy farmers never pass away. They just kick the bucket.

Sorry. Old joke.

Anyway, don't believe it. I don't after crossing paths recently with a number of ex-dairy farmers (not necessarily "old" dairy farmers) who have not kicked the bucket but instead kicked off into whole new lifestyles.

And love it.

While we're not ready to career-wise "kick the bucket" quite yet, I must admit to some twinges of envy for them the last few weeks.

Like on those numerous stretches of days when we've had to dump salt ahead of our feet to get up our ice-slick incline from the dairy barn to the calf nursery. Like the scarcy moments a few days ago when about 20 of the dairy cows slipped through a gate and went dancing and heel-kicking off in the direction of the iced-over farm pond.

Or like the afternoon I dashed out the back door with an urgent message for the farmer at the barn, hit the icy top one of our three cement porch steps and sailed airborne to a most ungraceful landing in the snow/ice/slush covered yard.

One ex-dairyman friend, now retired near a ski area in West Virginia, spends most of his winter days sliding across ice and snow-covered slopes. But he does it on skis, enjoying the sport for himself while assisting with the ski patrol to help others. He and his wife have also made several mission trips to help build church facilities in third world countries.

Strolling around the Farm Show last week, we ran into former Holstein cattle breeder friends who also sold their outstanding milking and show herd a few years ago. Yes, they were back working the Farm Show again - at the booth sponsored by the regional association of emu breeders.

That's right, emus. An emu is sort of a cousin to an ostrich or a rhea, but according to these friends, more docile than those two similar types of birds.

Emus don't have to be milked, bred, cleaned up after every day, calved out, etc. Emus, however, do have some specific needs. They must be closely observed during their mating season.

When the female lays an egg, these former dairy farmers quietly remove it from the nesting shelter. They incubate the eggs and monitor them closely when hatch time is near. On occasion, they've had to help a chick break free of the big dark-green-shelled eggs, being careful not to assist either too quickly or wait too long. That's a lot like helping with calving, but just a much more delicate kind of delivery.

This couple currently maintains two pairs of mature, breeding emus and have more demand for chicks than they can meet.

The Farmer recently chatted with another former dairy producer who has exited dairying and converted the farm into a golf course. Actually that's been done a number of places around the state, parlaying former rolling fields of hay, corn, grain and pasture into 18-hole courses with full compliment of sand traps and water hazards.

And then there's a former Holstein breeder from upstate who dispersed his herd about five years ago and disappeared from the dairy scene. We ran into him at the airport a few weeks ago when our daughter visited for the holidays. After "retiring," he went into a partnership in Texas, in a much larger dairy operation, and now commutes back and forth every few weeks to assist with management and marketing.

Listening to these "retirement" alternatives is truly fascinating — maybe just a bit tempting to dwell on while we battle Pennsylvania permafrost.

But like our Texas-commuting friend, we find that we, too, are not quite ready yete to kick the dairying habit.

Dairy Of Distinction Farms Sought

SYRACUSE, N.Y.—The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program (NEDFB) is seeking applications from dairy producers in New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey whose farms might qualify as a Dairy of Distinction.

To qualify for consideration, you must be actively dairy farming. Applications are available from the program secretary in your state and must be submitted by April 15 of each year. For more information about NEDFB, contact the following secretaries: New York: Carol Weddle, NY Holstein Association, 957 Mitchell Street, Ithaca, NY 14851, (607) 273-7591; Pennsylvania: Paul Nichols, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. 239 Schuyler Ave, Suite 105, Kingston, PA 187704, (717) 283-2204; and New Jersey: August Knispel, RD#1, Box 325, Pittstown, NJ 08867, (201) 735-4989.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program was first initiated in 1983 to recognize the hard work and dedication of dairy owner/opeerators who maintain attractive farms. Its purpose is two-fold: to promote a positive dairy industry image, and to instill in consumers a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings, since this is what consumers observe as they drive by. Animal cleanliness, the barnyard, feed areas and manure management are other aspects of the farm opeeration taken into consideration. Roadside farm judging takes place in the month of May each year. Winners are judged annually to ensure they continue to meet the standards of excellence set by the beautification program.

The Return Of The Slow Cooker

One form of cooking that has recently regained popularity is slow cooking. Slow cooking became popular in the seventies with the introduction of the electric slow cooker.

Promoted as a no-watch, miracle-type appliance that could cook almost any dish better than any other method, the slow cooker enjoyed instant popularity. It was a disappointment when you discovered the vegetables came out tasting like meat and looking like mush. The claims for effortless, versatile cooking were in a sense unfortunate because they no doubt caused many people to become dissatisfied with the appliance and ban it to the top shelf of the cupboard.

Today's slow cookers have removable linings for easy cleaning and multiple heat settings. Some automatically shift from high to low heat, a nice food-safety feature. Even with these features, slow cookers are best suited for blending flavors in stews and sauces, and breaking down tough meat fibers.

Keep safety in mind when using a slow cooker. The slow cooker does a better job of killing disease-causing microbes than low-temperature cooking in a conventional oven because the heat is direct and is combined with steam in a tightly covered container. Still, take precautions to avoid holding foods in the danger zone (40 to 140 degrees F.) for too long.

To maximize the safety of the slow cooker:

- Make sure everything is clean — a clean cooker, clean utensils, clean work areas and clean hands.
- Thaw meat or poultry in the refrigerator or microwave oven before placing in the slow cooker. If placed in the slow cooker while still frozen, meat may remain in the danger zone for more than three hours.
- Fill the slow cooker no more than two-thirds full. Heat may not adequately penetrate to all parts of the food if the container is too full.
- Keep the lid secure. Since considerable heat is lost when the cover is lifted, remove the lid only to stir food or check for doneness.
- Set the cooker on the highest setting for the first hour of cooking. This high setting speeds the heating process. Then, set the control as directed in the recipe.
- When finished eating, remove leftovers from the slow cooker and refrigerate or freeze. Reheat leftovers quickly on the range or in the microwave oven, not in the slow heat of the slow cooker.
- If using slow cookers to keep food warm for a party or a buffet, bring the food to a boil on the range and then use the slow cooker to keep it hot.

Italian Beef and Pasta is an economical, family-pleasing favorite with a new flavor twist.

Ideas For One-Dish Meals

We all need dinner in a hurry from time to time. But, dinner in a hurry doesn't need to mean dashing to the local carry-out or fast food restaurant. Not when you know the basics for one-dish cooking.

One of the beauties of one-dish cooking is that it's very fast when you use quick-cooking meats and frozen or freshly prepared vegetables from the supermarket.

Another plus for one-dish meals is that cleanup is easy because there is only one pan.

Some one-dish meals do require longer cooking times. But these, too, are often timesavers, for they can be prepared and stuck in the oven while you do your chores. Save these longer cooking one-dish meals for those days when you can allow extra time for baking.

Many busy families have favorite dinner fall-backs — convenient, tasty weekday meals that complement hectic routines. Have fun trying these.

Cathy Gro, the Mifflin County Dairy Princess, is a junior at Lewistown Area High School. The daughter of Dale and Susan Gro of Pal-Ray Farm in McVeytown, Cathy helps milk 92 Holsteins and Ayrshires and crop farm the 200 acres.

Here are two of her breakfast favorites.

BANANA BREAKFAST DRINK

3 ripe bananas, sliced
3 cups cold milk
3 tablespoons honey
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Place all ingredients in blender container; cover. Blend until smooth and frothy. Serve immediately in tall chilled glasses.

CHEDDAR OMELET

3 eggs
3 tablespoons water
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese
Dash pepper
1 tablespoon butter

With a fork, thoroughly mix eggs, water, ¼ cup cheese and pepper. Heat butter in 8-10-inch omelet pan or skillet until hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in egg mixture. It should begin to cook at edges immediately. Draw the cooked portions with a spatula or fork toward the center so that the uncooked portions flow to the bottom and outer edge. Keep mixture as level as possible. Shake skillet frequently to keep omelet from sticking. When eggs no longer flow and surface is still moist, increase heat to brown bottom quickly.

If necessary, loosen edges. Shake skillet again to be certain omelet is not sticking at any point. Sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup cheese. Fold in half. Total cooking time is about 1½ minutes.

4-H'er Attends National Congress

Susanna Dreisbach-Williams of Easton was one of the 38 delegates from Pennsylvania to attend the five-day National 4-H Youth Congress held at the Chicago Hilton and Towers in December, representing the Pennsylvania 4-H and Youth Development program.

Delegates, including Dreisbach-Williams, were selected from more than 119,000 4-H members in Pennsylvania based upon their record of community involvement, excellence in their selected program area, and leadership skills.

Dreisbach-Williams joined more than 1,500 delegates from across the nation in attending the 72nd Annual National 4-H Congress, jointly sponsored by the National 4-H Council, USDA, and private donors. Highlights of the five-day congress included daily programs by major corporate sponsors, visits to such landmarks as the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, The Chicago Board of Trade, the Cook County Court house, and several of the outstanding museums in the Chicago area.

Dreisbach-Williams stated that the best part about attending Congress was meeting people from all over the country. She attended four workshops on career exploration, nonverbal communication, true colors, and team building. Susanna, who has just completed her last year in 4-H, said that the learning continues even after the last award forms are filled out.

According to Christy Kohler, Northampton County 4-H coordinator, the opportunity to attend National 4-H Youth Congress is the highest achievement award that a 4-H member can earn. Susanna has put in a lot of effort to attain this achievement award.

Hunterdon Hoppers 4-H Rabbit Club

The November meeting of the Hunterdon Hoppers 4-H Rabbit Club was held at the Hunterdon County Extension Center on November 15. The group discussed the December Holiday Workshop and the achievement dinner on November 19th. Allison Pictroski of Ringoes gave a demonstration entitled "Giving a Demonstration".

The club welcomes new member Jessica O'Donnell of Califon.

Exercise Reduces Diabetes Risk

If people do regular aerobic exercise and fail to lose weight, they may still reap an award — a reduction in the risk of developing diabetes.

Being obese puts people at risk of developing diabetes, says a nutrition researcher. Inactivity increases that risk as does having a family history of the disease or a tendency to gain weight at the waist rather than the hips.

A study at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Human Nutrition Research Center on Aging at Tufts University in Boston, indicates that regular exercise can help people who may risk becoming diabetic. After 12 weeks of exercise, 18 volunteers — men and women over age 50 — reacted well to insulin and glucose.

That finding supports other research showing that exercise improves people's ability to respond to insulin so that glucose moves readily from the blood into body cells, says Virginia A. Hughes, who headed the study at the center funded by USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

"Weight loss produces the greatest improvement in people," says Hughes. "But it's very hard for most people to keep the weight off."

Unfortunately, people are seldom diagnosed before they become diabetic, she adds, and many diabetics go undiagnosed. While the volunteers were not diabetic, Hughes says, they had a nine- to ten-fold higher risk of developing diabetes at the beginning of the study.

She says the volunteers' insulin sensitivity — the appropriate response to insulin — improved an average 11 percent after exercising four times a week for 12 weeks. That means they cleared 11 percent more glucose from their blood with the same amount of insulin at the end of the study than they did at the beginning.

"Insulin sensitivity would probably continue to improve if people maintained the exercise program," she says, noting that changes in body fat were not statistically significant. "You don't see substantial changes in body composition until about one year into an exercise program." (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

ANSWER — Mel Martin, Penn Yan, N.Y., wanted a recipe for regular old-fashioned pretzels. Thanks to Barbara Miller, Palm, for sending a recipe.

Soft Pretzels

1 cup warm water
3 packages dry yeast
3 cups flour

Rinse mixing bowl with hot water to warm it. Place 1 cup warm water in the bowl; sprinkle yeast over the top, stirring until dissolved. Add flour, 1 cup at a time, and mix well. Turn dough onto lightly floured board or pastry cloth; knead well for five full minutes. Shape in a ball and place in a bowl. Cover with towel.

Set to rise on a stove burner at lowest heat setting for 15 mintues or in a warm place. Turn off burner, let dough continue to rise for 15 minutes longer Set oven at 400 degrees. Meanwhile, pour 1 quart water in a shallow pan; add 2 teaspoons baking soda. Set this to simmer at medium heat on stove.

At the end of the rising period, punch down dough gently, then turn out on floured board. Pat it out to a six-inch square. Cut off a finger-size strip; flour palms of hands and work dough to a smooth ball. Starting at the top, roll the ball between the palms to form an even rope 12 inches long.

Lay the rope in a horseshoe with the open end at the bottom Take one end in each hand; cross the right over the left once, and then again Holding the ends between the fingertips, bring them to the top and press to fasten. Meanwhile, gently grasp the side loops with the last two fingers of each hand and pull to shape Continue this procedure until all the dough is used.

Place pretzels a few at a time in the simmering soda water. As they rise to the surface, remove with a perforated spatula and lay on a greased baking sheet. Brush with beaten egg or melted butter and sprinkle with coarse or table salt. Bake at 400 degrees for 15-25 minutes, depending on degree of color and hardness desired. Makes 12 nice pretzels.

ANSWER — Pat Elligson, Millers, Md., wanted a recipe for kinklings, a deep fried large raised type donut. Thanks to Sara L. Clark, Breezewood, for sending in several recipes, which are also called Kringla or Square Donuts.

KINGLINGS

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
3¼ cup sifted flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk

Cream together butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla; beat well. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt. Add dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk to creamed mixture, beating well after each addition. Chill several hours or overnight.

Roll 1 tablespoon dough on floured surface making a 5-inch stick. Place on greased baking sheet. Shape each stick into a ring and join ends. Repeat with remaining dough. Bake in 350 degree oven for 12 minutes. Remove from pan. Cool on racks. When cool, spread with vanilla glaze if desired. Makes about 5½ dozen.

Quick Buttercream

1 pound butter
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
1 to 2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla or other flavoring

In a food processor or electric mixer, beat the butter until very light and smooth, at least 2 minutes.

Add the sugar and beat again until fluffy, at least 2 minutes.

Add the egg white, beating until smooth. Add the flavoring to taste.

Makes enough to fill and frost one 9-inch layer cake.

Square Doughnuts

¾ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 package active dry yeast
1 egg, beaten
3¼ -3½ cups unsifted flour

Scald milk, stir in sugar, salt, and butter. Cool until lukewarm. Measure lukewarm water into a large warm mixing bowl. Warm by rinsing out bowl with hot water. Sprinkle in the yeast and stir until yeast dissolves.

Add lukewarm milk mixture, egg, and half the flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in enough remaining flour to make a soft dough. For lightness, add only enough flour to make a dough you can handle.

Turn dough onto a lightly floured board on pastry cloth. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 to 10 minutes.

If dough sticks to your hands, grease them lightly with shortening or oil. Place dough in a greased bowl, then turn the bottom side up. Cover with a damp cloth, let rise in a warm place until doubled in size about 1 hour.

Punch down dough on a lightly floured surface, roll about ½ -inch thick to make a rectangle 12x10-inches.

With a sharp knife, cut in 2½ -inch square (cut in rounds if you prefer). Cut holes in center with a 1-inch cutter or bottle-top. Place doughnuts about 2-inches apart on oiled baking sheet. Cover with inverted baking pan (allow room for dough to rise). Let rise until doubled, about 1 hour, about 15 minutes before end of rising period, heat fat to 375 degrees in deep fryer or electric skillet.

Handle the doughnuts as gently as possible so they will not fall. Fry them, a few at a time, in deep fat for 2 to 3 minutes or until browned on both sides.

Turn doughnuts only once. Drain on absorbent paper; dip while still warm in glaze of sugar. Makes about 20 doughnuts.

Kid's Korner

Do More, Have More — Make Your Own Toys

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Not too many years ago, kids did not have Nintendo games, television, and GI Joes to entertain them.

But they certainly did not get bored.

The Itinerant Talesman remembers. As a boy growing up without store-bought toys, he learned to make his own toys.

"The neat thing about making your own toys is that you can easily make another one if it gets broken or lost," he said. "The memory of how to make the toy continues to live in your head."

The Itinerant Talesman does not sell toys or charge money for his ideas. He said, "I want to pass along these ideas to the kids. I do this for the youngsters because I believe these guys should know about these things."

If you try his ideas, the Itinerant Talesman promises, "You will do more, have more, and it will not cost much money at all."

He believes the most important tool a child can have is a pocketknife.

"If you have a pocketknife, learn to use it properly and take care of it," he said.

"It breaks my heart that more youth use a handgun than a use a pocketknife in a creative way," he said.

One of the first projects the Itinerant Talesman learned to do with a pocketknife when he was a boy was to carve a "windy dittle" (see picture).

He made windy dittles in different sizes and shapes with little propellers that would spin forward and backward.

"Learn to use the right tools," he told the children. "Making mistakes is part of learning. I have lots of scars but I still have all my fingers and thumbs."

With an ordinary soda straw, you can make an oboe. Pinch one end of the straw shut. On the other end, cut from the end of the straw to the middle to form a v-cut.

Blow into the straw without letting the reeds touch your tongue or lips, because the straw must vibrate. To change the sound of the straw oboe, experiment with different lengths. The shorter the straw, the higher the notes. The longer the straw, the lower the notes.

Also, you can punch holes down the side of the straw to play different notes.

You can make your straw oboe longer by fitting straws inside of each other.

Many of the Talesman's ideas use common ordinary things found around your home.

"Making your own toys is a good way to recycle," the Talesman said.

The Talesman holds workshops at places such as the Farm Show and fairs across the state. He shows kids how to make tin can telephones and stilt walkers from large tin cans.

"It's sad that children don't have the opportunity to discover and play with these things," he said. "But to do so, children need adults to encourage, explain, and show them how to use tools and solve problems."

The Talesman said that his toys do not pollute landfills like dead batteries from toys do.

Try some of these ideas. The more you make your own toys, the more ideas you will discover to make more.

No matter what the age, persons are intrigued by the Talesman's homemade toys.

The Talesman demonstrates how stilt walkers can be made by stringing rope through holes in discarded tin cans.

These are various designs of the windy dittles that can be carved from sticks. Rubbing the cuts along the length of the windy dittles propels the small stick on the end.

The audience experiments with the party-line telephone made from tin cans and ropes.

Sarah Murowski, 2, stacks wooden shapes, which is a homemade toy.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

While others have had to brave the roads during the recent ice storm, I've been able to simply look out the window and enjoy the scenery. While inside my bay windows are full of flowering plants. The impatiens and begonias are bright pink while the kalanchoe have many orange blossoms. Among my Christmas presents were two large poinsettia. The one is in a hanging basket and I'll try to keep it blooming all winter.

Two of the grandchildren sent me a large gourd that is shellacked and is to be used as a birdhouse. Another gift was a big box of scented drawer lining paper. Because I'm confined to the house there has been plenty of time to use it. Why, I even discovered some things that I'd forgotten that I had. One was cardboard with pretty, old buttons sewn on them. Another was a toy dog that an aunt made when she was 92 years old. And, a number of embroidered pillowcases that I made a while ago.

One son gave us a big box of tapes that cover the lives of his three children from their babyhood to the present day. It is interesting to see them decorate their Christmas tree, hunt Easter eggs, blow out candles on a birthday cake or spend a few days at the seashore. Our daughter sewed an apron for me and it is large enough to completely cover a dress. One child gave a gift certificate to buy a pair of shoes but shopping is not a job that I like even if it is necessary.

Since my car is covered with ice and we can't go to a planned party at church, I'll bake a loaf of cranberry bread as I just saw a recipe that I want to try.

Five Senses Tour For School Children

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — The sights, sounds, smells, touches, and tastes of Kitchen Kettle Village provide the ideal setting for children in kindergarten through second grade to learn about the senses that tell them about their world.

Once again the village of more than 30 shopkeepers will offer Five-Senses Tours to area school groups, scouts, and other organizations. The innovative tours will be held from January through March on a daily basis, Monday through Friday.

Lynne Trout, organizer of the tours, says that children enjoy the learning experience especially when it's fun. She guides each group of students throughout the village, stopping in shops such as the Leather Shop, Bratton's Woodcrafts, the Jam and Jelly Kitchen, and the Bake Shop.

"At the Leather Shop, for instance, the smell of fresh leather fills the shop. Children are encouraged to feel the different types of leathers," she says.

Each child then gets a small leather gift as a token of their visit, as they do at many of the other participating shops.

The Jam and Jelly Kitchen and Bake Shop offer special tastes that the students always savor, notes Mrs. Trout. She lets each child taste a jam or jelly to see if they can guess what it is. They also get to experience the sweet aroma of jams cooking in big kettles, cookies baking in the oven, and fresh loaves of bread as they cool.

"Many of the shops take part in the Five-Senses Tours," says Mrs. Trout, noting that most of the students come from Lancaster County, Chester County, Delaware, and surrounding areas. Demand from schools has been so high that another daily tour has been added to the schedule.

After each Five-Senses Tour, children enjoy free hot cocoa and cookies. They also receive a poster that they can color to enter in a free drawing to have "Breakfast with Yummie," the village gingerbread costumed character.

"The Five-Senses Tour is becoming a tradition for school children throughout the area," says Mrs. Tout, "They lvoe it."

Kitchen Kettle Village is a gathering of 30 shops and eateries. It is located 10 miles east of Lancaster and 30 miles west of Exton on Route 340. Admission and parking are free.

For further information on the Five-Senses Tours, or to find out more about Kitchen Kettle Village, please call 1-800-732-3538.

Two Recreate Sounds From Bygone Days

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — When our forefathers fled persecution, they forged the Atlantic yearning to set foot on the American soil of freedom. People from France, Holland, Ireland, England, and Germany brought what they could to survive — seeds, scythes, hammers, and hoes, their cultures, customs, languages, and music. America's melting pot looked more like a good hearty stew filled with ingredients each rich in their own flavor.

But through time, flavors blend and the search for a direct line back to our ancestors becomes less distinct.

The same is true for music. The words of the Old World English ballads, which were brought to America, soon lost their meaning for the common man surviving the harsh elements ot Appalachia. But the music survived. And the instruments adapted.

In Appalachia, folks sang their songs on instrument whose ancestors came from the Old World. African slaves brought stringed gourd instruments — an early rendition of the Appalachian banjo. The German "scheitholt," possibly the dulcimer's ancestor, appealed to the large Scotch-Irish settlements in Appalachia because of its bagpipe sound. They took the rectangular-shaped instrument and added curved sides, usually teardrop or hourglass shaped, and added a fret board.

For a while, the tree-covered hills and hollows of Appalachia muffled the coming sound of modernization and folks met on their porch to visit and sing. When "progress" finally fingered its way back through the valleys, the dulcimer, unique to Appalachia, was set aside and ceased to evolve.

Today, two men from Reedsville, Mifflin County, have picked up the dulcimer again. Upon their laps lay an instrument they enjoy for its soft-spoken sound and history. But Glenn Selfridge and Rev. Ken Longfield, take their interest one step further — they make their own instruments.

"I've always been interested in folk music. My first real encounter with the dulcimer was the summer I worked at Shenandoah National Park," Ken reflects. "A woman was playing it and I thought it'd be fun. That was the beginning."

Since then, Ken has made 7¼ dulcimers, each producing a unique sound. His first dulcimer, with Rosewood back and sides, a walnut fingerboard and sitka spruce top remains his favorite because of its resonance. Other dulcimers are made from marine-grade mahogany, imported from Holland, and a wlanut laminate. Now he is making one out of American chestnut from the Maitland Church of the Brethren, which was torn down.

To purchase these exotic woods, Ken has had the good fortune of finding two music supply stores, one in Baltimore and the other in New York. "I was visiting Albert Constantine and Sons in New York. They carried a dulcimer in their catalog for a while then discontinued it. I had been looking around the store and didn't see anything, but walking out the door, I looked down and saw a box of dulcimer pieces. So I found two sides, a back and top, and a fret board. I took the pieces to the counter and had the guy ring it up and I think it was $4.32. Later on I wondered why I didn't buy the whole box! So I probably built this dulcimer for under $15 — maybe even under $10."

Glenn remembers hearing Ken speak about dulcimers at church. His interest grew after playing a friend's dulcimer. Then at Christmas, his wife Dolores gave him a dulcimer kit.

The kit served as a good guide and Glenn went on to make six more dulcimers "from scratch," five from walnut, one from "wormy" chestnut. "I have at least 60 hours in on the first one. Maybe less on the others," Glenn estimates.

While scanning the catalogs for strings and metal parts they couldn't make themselves, both Glenn and Ken discovered other Appalachian instruments. Glenn saw plans for the original Mountain Banjo in a Foxfire book. Starting from scratch again, he created out of wood, the smaller, more compact relative of the modern banjo.

Ken made a courting dulcimer. "That's a dulcimer that has two fret boards and two people sit knee to knee and play it. In the mountains, when a young man was courting a young woman at her home, the father could give them the dulcimer to sit on the front porch and play. As long as he heard music, there was no cause to go out and see what was going on," Ken laughs.

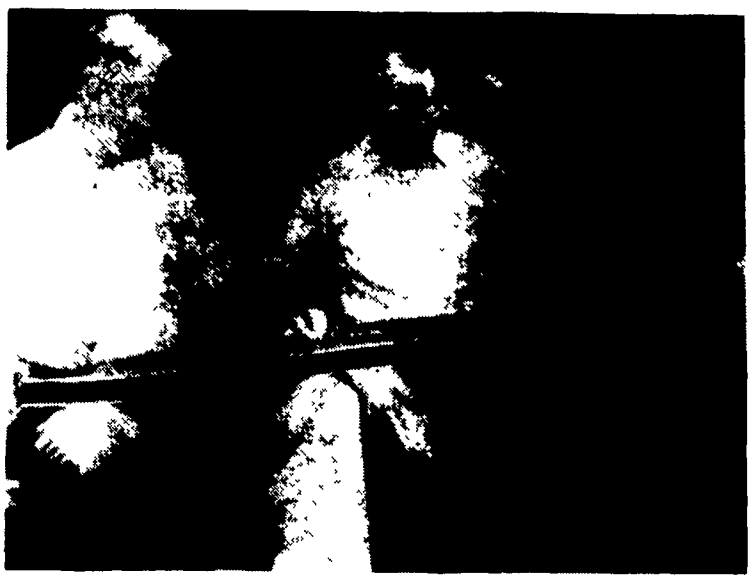
As for making other instruments, Ken has already started what he calls an autoharp-like instrument since Autoharp is a registered trademark. Both, though, laugh a little self-consciously at thinking big. Glenn would like to make a concert harp and calls it a "big undertakin." Ken wants to make a harpsichord, but it is not a "compact instrument to carry around!"

No matter what the instrument, the best reward after making one is playing it. "I never really had a book," Glenn remarks. "I just sort of picked it up on my own."

Whether learning from a book or playing by ear, both Ken and Glenn like to share at arts festivals or other gatherings their favorite songs: "Go Tell Aunt Nancy," "Amazing Grace," "Rollin' In My Sweet Baby's Arms," "You Are My Sunshine," "Oh Danny Boy," or "Boil That Cabbage Down."

Ken and Glenn re-create instruments reminiscent of a simple lifestyle that is almost gone. But sometimes they pick up their dulcimers and head for the porch, to pick a few songs, to fellowship, to harmonize, or sometimes simply — to enjoy.

Sights and sounds from bygone days rest against the old shop wall, like Appalachian dulcimers, mountain banjos, and old wagon wheels.



Summer and porch sitting are two luxuries to look forward to after a blustery winter. Rev. Ken Longfield (left) and Glenn Selfridge, both of Reedsville, Mifflin County, spend some free moments making music on Appalachian dulcimers — ones they made themselves.

When time slows to an old-fashioned leisurely pace, Rev. Ken Longfield, right, reaches for his favorite dulcimer to pick a tune with fellow woodworker Glenn Selfridge. Here, Selfridge is playing the mountain banjo he made.

Commonwealth Campuses Offer Gateway To Ag Courses

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — With career opportunities in the agricultural sciences expanding, more and more Pennsylvania students are enrolling in agricultural colleges, and many choose to begin their studies at Penn State Commonwealth Campuses.

"Commonwealth Campuses are great places to start pursuing an agricultural career," says Dr. Marianne Houser, coordinator of undergraduate recruitment in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"They combine advantages of a small-college setting with the vast resources that only a large university can provide," she says. "More than 600 students in the agricultural sciences are attending Commonwealth Campuses."

Students can begin studying for their baccalaureate degrees in the agricultural sciences at one of 18 Penn State campuses. "As many as half of all Penn State students begin at a Commonwealth Campus," Houser notes. "After the first year, students consult with their advisers about when to transfer to the University Park Campus."

The Penn State Berks Campus in Reading, located on the 240-acre former estate of a Berks County industrial leader, serves students in Berks, Lebanon, Lancaster, and Montgomery counties. "We have a lot to offer agriculture students," says Dr. David Sanford, associate professor of horticulture, who teaches and advises at the Berks Campus.

"As a result, undergraduates in agriculture on our campus have increased from 10 in 1988 to more than 100 today. In addition to the facilities common to all Penn State campuses, we have a state-of-the-art greenhouse, a horticulture and soils laboratory and a food science and microbiology laboratory."

Students in the western part of the state may choose to attend the Penn State McKeesport Campus, located 15 miles southeast of Pittsburgh. The 42-acre campus features computer and microcomputer centers, comprehensive science and engineering labs, a student union, a library, a modern gymnasium and a residence hall. The campus also adjoins a community park between McKeesport and White Oak.

"because our classes are small, teachers and students get to know each other," says Dr. John Zavodni, associate professor of zoology and agricultural sciences representative at Penn State McKeesport. "I have 52 students in Biology 101 and I can give each more individual attention than I could with a larger class."

The Penn State Altoona Campus is situated on 105 acres located two miles from the Altoona business district and 43 miles from the University Park Campus. Penn State Altoona enrolls 2,600 undergraduate students, many of whom come from central Pennsylvania.

"With more than 37,000 students, the University Park Campus can overwhelm freshmen," says Dr. Thomas Russo, associate professor of chemistry and agricultural sciences representative at Penn State Altoona. "It's easy for new students to become distracted and lose sight of their studies. Starting at a smaller campus can help students to focus on their grades and sharpen academic skills before attending the University Park Campus."

Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences offers 19 undergraduate majors, 15 minors, three associate degree programs and 16 graduate degrees and cooperates in offering eight intercollegiate programs. More than 85 percent of the college's 2,535 undergraduates come from nonagricultural backgrounds, and 33 percent are women.

People interested in agricultural careers are encouraged to visit the college to discuss academic plans with an adviser, meet faculty in their area of interest, and ask questions about financial assistance, residential life, course requirements and more. To arrange a visit, call the Office for Resident Education at (814) 865-7521.

FFA

BMA Provides Scholarships To FFA Members

In 1993, for the sixth year, BMA awarded five $1,000 scholarships through the National FFA Foundation to FFA members pursuing a four-year college degree in any area of agriculture.

As part of the company's continuing commitment to the agricultural industry, BMA will increase its support of this program by sponsoring ten $1,000 scholarships for FFA members in 1994.

Applications for the BMA scholarships, as well as the many other scholarships offered through the National FFA Foundation, are available through BMA agents or local FFA advisors. To be considered for 1994 scholarships, applications must be postmarked by February 15, 1994. All scholarship applications are judged by the National FFA Foundation.

Since its founding in 1909, BMA has emerged as one of America's leading providers of life and medical insurance, disability income, and annuities.

BMA's Baltimore office, headed by Norm E. Biondi, LUTCF, opened in 1992, and is located at Woodmere I, Suite 302, 9881 Broken Land Parkway in Columbia, (410) 381-0016.

Maryland FFA Members Visit BMA

Four Maryland FFA chapters were special guests at a luncheon hosted by BMA when they attended the FFA's national convention held in Kansas City, Mo., November 11-13.

After lunch with BMA executives, the FFA members toured the company's Home Office to learn more about BMA and how it serves the agricultural industry.

Each November, BMA is proud to host a series of luncheons for FFA members in Kansas City for the organization's annual national convention. Approximately 3,000 FFA members have attended the luncheons since the first were held in 1970.

The Maryland chapters attending this year's luncheons were Flintstone FFA, Flintstone, Md.; Oakland FFA, Oakland, Md.; South Carroll FFA, Sykesville, Md.; and Westminster FFA, Westminster, Md.

The chapters were invited to the luncheons based on recommendations from BMA's Baltimore office. The Office, headed by Norm E. Biondi, LUTCF, opened in 1992, and is located at Woodmere I, Suite 302, 9881 Broken Land Parkway in Columbia, (410) 381-0016.

DAIRY-MAP IN 1994

Lisa Holden
Research Associate

Lisa Holden

Did you ever wonder how many New Year's resolutions are made? And how many are broken?

As we rang in this new year, many of us in the dairy industry probably looked back at 1993 and then wondered what new challenges and issues will face us in 1994.

We can speculate and even make our New Year's resolutions. But without plans to move from resolution to action, these good intentions are unlikely to produce results.

Plans are like corner fence posts — those well set, sturdy, and straight make a good fence. Although strong corner posts take time to set properly, the time is well spent because less maintenance is needed.

If we all managed our lives and businesses as we do our fences, we probably would need to spend less time fighting the fires of crisis management. And just maybe we could stick to our New Year's resolutions. Being a good manager of ourselves and of our businesses is a goal to strive for in 1994.

Being a good manager starts by understanding management principles and by understanding people. Management seminars are available for all types of managers — even dairy farm managers.

Penn State faculty and Cooperative Extension personnel have designed a series of management workshops, known collectively as Dairy-MAP (Management And Profitability), especially for dairy farm managers. Dairy-MAP provides workshop participants practice with hands-on management to build better skills.

Dairy-MAPs' core course, Managing For Success (MFS), deals with management "corner posts" such as planning, organizing, staffing, directing, and controlling. The workshop atmosphere provides a friendly environment for communication, and the small group learning structure customizes activities for individual needs.

The MFS curriculum committee borrowed successful elements from other management programs, added their own Pennsylvania stories and ideas, and developed a two-day package that last year's participants found very helpful in both day-to-day and long-term management of a dairy farm.

While the MFS core provides great basic management skills, most everyone has specialized management needs. In addition to MFS, the Dairy-MAP program makes available several more specific management focus workshops to those who have completed MFS. Focus workshops include financial management, feeding management, human resource management, and forage systems management.

In 1994, only the financial management workshops are being offered across the state. Human resource management will be tested in one location this year and become widely available in 1995.

Focus modules are offered on an as-needed basis. In the Dairy-MAPs' pilot season (1992-1993), feeding management was identified as a needed module and was featured in several areas. Financial management will be featured this season. The committee developing the human resource management and forage systems management modules are enthusiastic about their debuts in 1995.

Specialty modules offer dairy managers a chance to customize their educational package according to individual needs and interests. Dairy managers can sharpen basic management skills by participating in these modules.

As 1994 moves ahead, Dairy-MAP will continue to grow and change. An extensive evaluation was conducted during the first year, and a continuing survey of participants will help facilitators update and refine the program.

We have appreciated the constructive comments of past participants. Good management involves monitoring progress and making improvements, and Dairy-MAP is no exception! Your local county extension office can supply details on Dairy-MAP workshops in your area. Good luck with your resolutions, and best wishes for a prosperous 1994!

Keep Household Water Safe, Plentiful

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — If you are like most people, you probably don't give much thought to your water. Turn on the tap and out it comes, ready for drinking, bathing or household chores.

But don't take your water for granted, said an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences." Although your water may be clean and plentiful, you should take steps to keep it that way," said Dr. William sharpe, professor of forest hydrology.

Sharpe and other Penn State specialists will be on hand to discuss water issues at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show, January 8-13 in Harrisburg. The Penn State exhibit will include separate displays on groundwater, water testing and conservation, and the effect of farm nutrient management legislation on water quality.

Visitors to the exhibit can learn about the cost and effectiveness of water-saving household devices. "The average family of four uses more than 250 gallons of water each day," said Sharpe. "Almost all of that water goes down the drain in toilets, tubs and sinks. By changing habits and installing water-saving toilets, showerheads and faucets, you can reduce water use by up to 40 percent."

Sharpe says conserving water benefits communities, as well as individual consumers. "Saving water may reduce the need for costly water storage and treatment facilities. And reducing wastewater can help keep sewage treatment plants from overloading."

Testing your water for contaminants is also important, especially if you rely on a private well. "If you have your own well or spring, you're responsible for its quality," Sharpe said. "Unlike public water supplies, no governmental agency requires monitoring of private, individual water systems for contamination."

Some of the most common water problems are coliform bacteria, nitrates, giardia, lead and radon. Sharpe says bacteria tests should be done annually. Testing for other potential contaminants should be done if local geology or land use indicates they are likely to be present.

Contaminants such as lead, radon and giardia also can be problems for those served by public water systems.

Penn State faculty and staff will be available at Farm Show to give water testing advice and distribute information about state-certified testing firms.

Penn State's groundwater display will include a map showing Pennsylvania's well fields and aquifers. Visitors can learn more about the state's groundwater resources, which supply 4.5 million Pennsylvanians with drinking water. In all, three-quarters of a billion gallons of groundwater are used daily in the state, more than half of which help to meet the water needs of industry, mining and agriculture.

The Farm Show opens to the public in January 8 and closes on January 13. Hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday; 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday; and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday. Parking is $2 and admission is free.

Timely Tips

• Refrigerators are great places to display children's artwork. Use kitchen magnets instead of tape to fasten the picture to the sides and door.

• A rainy day kitchen sandbox can be made with several inches of dry rice in a dishpan. To make a more colorful sandbox, add unpopped popcorn kernels or colorful dried beans to the rice. Bing out some plastic cups, bowls, and large spoons for pouring and stirring.

• Baby food jars make great containers for mixing tempera paint. Set the jars in a muffin tin for young artists to use without fear of spilling. When art time is over, cap the jars to save leftover paint for the next art session.

• Place non-skid bathtub strips or designs on the seat of baby's high chair to keep him/her from sliding down in the seat.

• Children love to play with plastic food storage containers. Find a bottom drawer or cupboard in the kitchen where they can be kept, so children can play in the kitchen while you are preparing meals and snacks.

• Do you care for a toddler who is learning to hold his/her own cup? Slide a rubber band around the cup so it won't easily slip through little hands.

• If young children do not want to wear bibs, colorful bandana scarves will serve as bibs for young "cowboys" or "cowgirls."

• Children like to do things themselves. Children as young as two can be taught how to put on their own coats. Have the child lay his/her coat on the floor, spreading it to show the lining. Show the child how kneel behind the hood and slip each hand into an armhole. Have the child lift his/her arms to flip the jacket over the head and push his/her arms through the sleeves. Presto! Even the hood falls in place on the head!

• Keep an 8-inch square of waxed paper inside the back of a child's boot so the heel of the shoe can slide into the boot easily. The same piece of waxed paper can be used over and over again.

Barns in Lancaster & Surrounding Counties Are Ruined By Overcoating.
Resurfacing Is The Remedy!
a) Resurface by waterblasting using your pressure washer with the new dirt chaser gun, or have it done professionally.
b) Into this resurfaced wood we first coat with a new stain paint for deep penetration.
c) Second coat penetrates first coat. Both coats are brushed with the finest bristles to control film thickness.
d) This thin film will not peel, because it is in the wood giving it a double life and more.
e) Starting today we go back to methods used in a period of time when there was no peeling.
f) Costs less than ½ of the out-of-state and other competitions.

Public Speaking Course Offered

The Montgomery County 4-H Office invites all teens to attend the 4-H Toastmasters Junior Leadership course, which will start Monday, January 31 and continue for eight consecutive Monday nights up to and including March 21.

Classes will be held at the 4-H Center in Creamery from 7 p.m.-9 p.m. each night. Graduation ceremonies are set for Monday, March 28. Parents are welcome to attend the first session, especially those of "younger" members.

The course is open to all youth ages 13-19. Youth do not have to have been in 4-H prior to the course, but by enrolling in the program they will be listed as members for the year. The goals of the program are to help teens increase their leadership skills and ability to speak in front of others.

According to Nancy Kadwill, county 4-H coordinator, "The program is beneficial for all teens because it helps them improve their confidence in speaking at school, on job interviews, and in group situations. Besides, participants will get to meet new people and have fun in the process."

There will be a $10 donation for the program. Enrollees can bring a check, payable to "4-H Dev. Fund," on the first night of the program. Instructors for the course are from the Toastmasters Club in Doylestown.

Enrollment is limited, so you must call if you are interested in reserving a place in the program. Call (610) 489-4315 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. and leave your name, age, phone number, and address with the secretary. If you cannot call during those hours, write down the information and send it by January 24 to Nancy Kadwill, 1015 Route 113, Box 20 Creamery, PA 19430.

4-H Shooting-Sports Training

One hundred volunteer leaders are expected to participate in a Pennsylvania 4-H Shooting Sports Workshop set for March 25-27 at Mifflinburg.

The workshop, funded in part by the National Rifle Association, will involve specialized training in rifle, postol, archery, shotgun, and the coordination of county 4-H shooting sports programs.

The 4-H Shooting Sports program has grown rapidly in Pennsylvania and the 4-H organization nationwide. The program began unofficially in Texas in 1976 and since that time has grown to involve 42 states.

The Pennsylvania Shooting Sports program had an enrollment of more than 1,800 youth in 1993 and offers statewide contests in air pistol, air rifle, archery, and .22 rifle at 4-H State Achievement Days at Penn State University in July.

The objectives of the program are:

- Develop leadership abilities, build character, and assume citizenship responsibilities.
- Develop responsible sportsmanship, ethical behavior, and respect for safe conduct of shooting sports activities.
- Gain awareness and appreciation of the broad spectrum of shooting sports and related activities as lifelong leisure opportunities.
- Develop shooting knowledge and skills
- Become aware of related career opportunities
- Gain in-depth experiences in individual specialized areas of interest.
- Gain enjoyable, positive relationships with adults and peers.

Instruction for the workshop will be conducted by a team of Pennsylvania State University staff and 4-H volunteers who attended a Northeast/Southeast 4-H Shooting Sports Conference at Smith Mountain Lake near Wirtz, Va. in April 1993.

For more information about this workshop or the Pennsylvania 4-H Shooting Sports program contact Fred Rudy, Dauphin County Cooperative Extension, 1451 Peters Mountain Road, Dauphin, PA 17018-9500, (717) 921-8803.

National Farmers Organization Develops Cull Cow Forward Contract

AMES, Iowa — National Farmers recently blazed a new marketing trail for cull cows with a first in the beef industry — a cull cow forward contract.

"In October, National Farmers put together the first fed-cow forward contract ever," said Pat Lewis, program manager for Cash Cow Plus, National Farmers' cull cow program. "The contract is for several thousand colored (non-dairy) cull cows from Nebraska herds.

"The program has two objectives. First, producers can make more money from their cull cows by putting the cows into a feedlot, rather than selling them directly after they wean their fall calves," Lewis said. "Second, the forward contract will level out the flood of beef cows that hit the market when calves are weaned in the fall.

"That oversupply of cows in the fall drives the market down. By feeding the cows for 100-plus days, producers can take advantage of a historically stronger market, and meter the cows into the market on a less disruptive basis," Lewis said.

Andy Neutzling, director of operations for National Farmers' livestock department said that although the cows will go to market in the spring, they are not a part of the spring market.

"The cows are coming off feed in the spring, but producers won't have marketing worries," he said. "The cows were marketed five months before with the forward contract. The double result is that the cows will be pulled out of the spring market as well as the fall market."

A fed cow is a cull cow who is put in a feedlot for 100 or more days. During this time, the cow transforms yellow fat into white fat by eating a high energy corn ration.

Contracted delivery dates on all cows involved in this pilot effort is between mid-February to late April. The contract specifies the carcasses must weigh between 550 and 850 pounds, and 85 percent of the cows must have white tallow.

"The cows were sold at $1.02-½ in the meat," said Lewis. "This price is $3/cwt. above the average fed cow price one year ago, and $5 to $6/cwt. in the meat above what hamburger cows are currently bringing.

"National Farmers recognizes that it is very strong in the dairy cull cow market," he said. "It also recognizes a need to gain a larger share of the colored cull cow market."

Neutzling said this new forward contract could support the total cattle market if National Farmers had enough cows under contract. Still, regardless of the number of cows contracted, it tends to support the cull cow market since the price is already determined.

"These cows are actually in competition with fed cattle," Neutzling said. "Packers will take primal cuts off these cows and market the cuts themselves — not just boneless cuts like they normally do with cull cows." That added meat puts added pressure on young beef cattle.

"As long as there is a market for that type of beef product, National Farmers will continue forward contracting cull cows," said Neutzling.

N.Y. Farm Show Win-Win Event For Farmers

LIVERPOOL, N.Y.—Farmers can drive around the countryside to check out what's new in equipment and inputs. Or time-conscious, smart farmers can one-stop look at the 9th annual New York Farm Show.

Held last Feb. 24-26 at the New York State Fairgrounds in Syracuse, the large indoor farm show brings the nation's and region's major agricultural dealers to one location for a three-day information extravaganza. Show hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

"New York Farm Show is a great opportunity to see different manufacturers and compare what they have to offer," said Scott Grigor, farm show manager. "Farmers can find out what's coming up for the next season — what's the latest technology, what's happening in chemicals, equipment and services. It's one-stop shopping at its best."

What are some hot items on agribusinesses' shelves this year? Farmers will see some interesting changes in chemical and seed packaging and innovations in disease and pest resistance in corn hybrids, Grigor said.

Equipment manufacturers are eager to explain their new tillage and planting equipment to help farmers meet their conservation compliance plans. Along with them, the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) will provide a special display on residue management. Farmers can measure residue and learn what practices leave the required amount on their highly erodible land.

Farms are more than production, and the New York Farm Show is more than equipment. To address the diversity of farm life, special programs will occur throughout the three-day show. Learn ways to make farm and family life safer and more healthy by taking in demonstrations offered by the New York State Rural Health and Safety Council and the New York Center for Agriculture Health and Medicine.

New York Farm Show isn't all work. For the second year, a special display of antique tractors will draw the attention of show goers, as will the 5th annual Toy Show Auction. Held Friday, Feb. 25, at 6 p.m. in the Arts and Home Center building, this year's auction will feature some 400 pieces for sale. Proceeds benefit the FFA Alumni Scholarship Fund and the Hamilton FFA chapter.

New York Farm Show tickets are available free from your New York state farm equipment dealer. To order free tickets by mail, write the New York Farm Show, P.O. Box 3470, Syracuse, NY 13220. Include a self-addressed, stamped legal envelope.

Va., Tenn. Farmers To Address Conference

MILLHEIM (Centre Co.) — Virginia grazier/farmer Joel Salatin and Lorna McMahon, a crop farmer from west Tennessee, will be among the farmers to address the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agricultures' (PASA) annual Farming for the Future Conference to be held Feb. 4-5 at the Nittany Lion Inn in State College.

Salatin, who raises "pastured poultry" and grass-fed beef on his Blue Ridge mountain farm, will discuss his use of grazing in what he terms "Plants and Animals in Environmental Symbiosis." Salatin raises thousands of broilers every year in portable outdoor pens and markets them directly to consumers from his farm. His beef is also marketed directly, thus insuring higher profit per animal. There is generally a waiting list for all of his products.

Salatin and his family are noted for their cost-cutting and biologically sound farming methods. His farm is unique in that there are few buildings and relatively few pieces of equipment. A combination of grazing and composting has provided fertility for the land and solved manure management issues. The daily movement of cattle and poultry avoids excess nutrient buildup and breaks up disease cycles.

In many other ways, the Salatins have managed to work with nature in ways that are beneficial to the environment as well as the farm family. Through innovative marketing, the sustainability of the family on the farm is insured.

Lorna McMahon is a fifth generation farmer in the Mississippi Delta lands of west Tennessee. She took over the 2,300-acre farm in 1987 and immediately converted 230 acres to organic crop production. The remainder of the land is leased out to other farmers. She produces a variety of field crops, including corn, wheat, soybeans, and cotton, as well as approximately 14 acres of high value vegetables and pecans and 40 acres of cover crops. Much of her 230 acres is certified organic, and she receives premium prices for cotton (about twice the going rate), soybeans. (used by tofu makers), and corn (sold to organic beef producers).

McMahon will address the PASA conference on the issue of "Making the Transition to Farming Organically" and on "Improving the Farm and Community Natural Resource Base." Stressing diversity and alternative marketing as cornerstones to farm profitability, McMahon will offer her own experiences as a testament to how organic farming is helping her utilize her farm resources.

A large number of Pennsylvania farmers will also address the conference and a number of farmer-to-farmer workshops are planned as well. Of particular interest to those considering the transition to more sustainable methods will be sessions led by Ron Gargasz on "Considerations for Economic Viability in the Transition Years" and Dale Good on "Integrated Dairy Systems." Both Gargasz and Good are Pennsylvania farmers.

A panel on "How to Start and Sustain a Farm" will be led by Jim Crawford, Ward Sinclair, and Garry and Linda VanDeWeert. Crawford and Sinclair are both organic vegetable producers in southern Pennsylvania and the VanDeWeerts operate a dairy farm on the Pennsylvania, New York line near Athens. Garry and Linda started out five years ago with $100 in cash and have used intensive grazing as a way to improve profitability. Sinclair is a former newspaper reporter who operates a truck farm selling largely through farmers' markets in the Washington, D.C. area. Crawford uses various marketing methods, including coop sales for his organic vegetables. All of these farmers have a wealth of recent experience to present and will not hesitate to tell you what has and has not worked for them and why.

Farmer-to-farmer exchange sessions are planned in the areas of grazing; compost production and utilization; pest management strategies in vegetable production; and tillage, cover crops, and rotations.

In addition to the farmer exchanges and workshops, Pennsylvania farmers will make presentations on insect management in fruit trees, alternative marketing of livestock and livestock products, fitting cover crops into field crop rotations, and supporting producer-only markets. University and agency representatives will also address topics such as soil health, sustainable vegetable growing, sustainable fruit production, grazing, marketing, greenhouses, the environment and much more.

For more information and registration forms, contact PASA, P.O. Box 316, Millheim, PA 16854, (814) 349-9856.

Hereford Breeders Experience Record-Breaking Bull Sales

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Hereford bull sales set a record of $2,260, for the average price paid in 1993, a public auction sales across the nation. This is the highest sale average documented in the 113-year history of record-keeping by the American Hereford Association.

The 1993 bull demand follows the pattern of the last five years, as national sale averages have exceeded $2,000. Following is a listing of national bull sale averages by year from 1989 through 1992: 1989 - $2,108; 1990 - $2,053; 1991 - $2,210; 1992 - $2,194.

National bull sale averages for the Hereford breed in 1993 were compiled from 182 public auction sale reports from coast to coast. Of these auction reports, 129 were breeder production sales and 53 were consignment sales. The sale of 7,871 ¼ bulls amassed a gross of $17,791,351, to average $2,260.

Sales of Hereford females were brisk in 1993 as 3,855 lots sold at auction for $5,886,427, to average $1,527. This average compares well with the averages of the previous four years: 1989 - $1,394; 1990 - $1,442; 1991 - $1,669; and 1992 - $1,608.

The combined average of bulls and females was $2,019. This average was established on the sale of 11,726 ¼ head of registered Herefords at 1993 auction sales for a gross of $23,677,778.

The top Hereford bull sales in 1993 were recognized in two different sale categories, production and consignment. Within each category, sales were broken down according to the number of bulls sold.

Sponsored by Penn States Department of Dairy and Animal Science, in collaboration with the College of Agricultural Sciences, the workshops will be offered via satellite at more than 45 locations in Pennsylvania and six nearby states.

These workshops combine local hands-on activities conducted by extension agents and interaction with University faculty via satellite at locations in Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

Sessions will feature several video segments presented via satellite, exercises on balancing rations, and discussions on nutrition-related topics conducted by county agents, plus a question and answer period with specialists in dairy nutrition, agronomy, and agricultural engineering.

Satellite lectures by Penn State dairy and animal science faculty Larry Muller, Dick Adams, Gabriella Varga, and Jud Heinrichs will focus on feeding and managing early lactation cows, mid-lactation cows, dry cows, and heifers, with emphasis on troubleshooting metabolic problems related to dry cows and early lactation cows.

Virginia Ishler will discus determining dry matter contents of forages. Dennis Buckmaster from the engineering department will showcase Penn State's new forage particle size separator for the first time. This piece of equipment will provide better analysis of silages and total mixed rations.

Agronomists Greg Roth and Marvin Hall will speak on corn and alfalfa management as it relates to feeding high-producing dairy cows. Maurice Eastridge of the Ohio State University will present a video segment on fat feeding for early lactation dairy cows.

Participants will visit a dairy farm via satellite, where Jud Heinrichs will interview the farm owner, taking viewers into the milkhouse and feedroom. After looking at the body condition of several cows, Heinrichs and the farmer will analyze rations being used and troubleshoot on how to improve the herd's overall nutrition.

Back in the classroom, workshop participants will begin working with specific forage and grain samples to determine the best approaches to use in balancing protein and carbohydrate fractions in the diet. For this exercise, they will use a forage analysis based on a sample they brought to the workshop the first week.

Workshops will start at 10 a.m. and end at 3 p.m., with an hour for lunch. A $25 registration fee includes the cost of a forage sample analysis. An additional charge will be made if meals are provided, but this will vary with site.

To register or obtain more information, contact the extension office in your county.

Land Preservation Program Reaches Milestone

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — The Dauphin County Commissioners and the Dauphin County Agricultural and Land Preservation Board have recently announced the reaching of a milestone in the County's Agricultural Conservation Easement Purchase Program.

In September, the program preserved permanently its 1,000th acre of Dauphin County farmland.

As with previous easement purchases, to show support for the program, the Dauphin County Commissioners presented a Londonderry Township landowner with a check from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as payment for the easement which will permanently preserve this farm.

The county commissioners and the county board believe 1993 to be a breakthrough year for the program, which seems to be gaining momentum both in Dauphin County and the state. The 1993 program year has been the first year that the county program was unable to find all eligible and interested applicants in Dauphin County.

Dauphin County's Agricultural Land Preservation Program has been accepting applications since 1991. In 1991, seven applications were received and, in 1992, eight applications were received. This year, 17 new applications were received. This increase in applications reflects the increase in both awareness of and interest in the program.

The Easement Purchase Program is a state level program administered at the county level by participating counties. More than 30 counties currently have approved programs. Counties wishing to partucipate must appoint boards and develop an administrative program that must be approved by the state board before applications may be accepted. Once approved, the county is eligible for state funding through grants and matching funds. The intent of the program is to preserve Pennsylvania's prime farmland by offering landowners an alternative to development. That alternative is the purchase of agricultural conservation easements.

A conservation easement is an interest in a piece of land which gives the owners of the easement the right to protect a feature of the land. In this case, the protected feature is agriculture. Purchasing a conservation easement may be thought of as purchasing development rights. The price of the easement is determined by a qualified, certified appraiser.

In Dauphin County, applicants are ranked by a 300 point scoring system which gives up to 100 points for soil quality and up to 200 points for location, stewardship, surrounding land use, and productivity. Applications are prioritized based primarily on the ranking system. All applications which are not funded for a given year are automatically carried into the following year and re-ranked with new applicants. Applying for the program does not commit either the landowner to sell or the state to purchase an easement. Commitment to sell and purchase the easement occurs only if the landowner accepts the offered easement value and the state board approves the purchase.

To date in Dauphin County, nine easements have been purchased, preserving more than 1,000 acres of farmland for the future. Five additional easement purchases have been approved totalling 600 acres, bringing the total acreage protected to more than 1,600 acres.

Following is a list of completed or approved purchases by township and acreage through November 30, 1993: Jackson Township - one Easement, 51 acres; Londonderry Township - two Easements, 252 acres; Lykens Township - three easements, 375 acres; Mifflin Township - one easement, 115 acres; Upper Paxton Township - five easements, 589 acres.

Anyone interested in additional information concerning easements purchased or about Dauphin County's programs, or in obtaining an application, may contact Bob Christoff at the Dauphin County Conservation District in the Agriculture and Natural Resources Center, 1451 Peters Mountain Road, Dauphin, PA 17018, (717) 921-8100.

Feed Grains Council To Meet

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. agriculture's ability to "Build For Tomorrow" depends on its ability to strategize and adapt to changing market conditions.

The program of the 34th membership meeting of the U.S. Feed Grains Council (USFGC), to be held Feb. 6-9 at the Radisson Resort, Scottsdale, Ariz., is designed with that in mind.

Veteran politician Barry Goldwater will offer his perspective on the world political situation. He is followed by Gene Moos, undersecretary, U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), who will speak about the departmental reorganization and the effects of NAFTA and GATT. David Hardy, formerly of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, is scheduled to speak on political unity within the agricultural community in an address entitled "Agriculture: Looking for an Agenda."

In addition, a series of presentations will focus on the political, economic, and agricultural outlook in the People's Republic of China. Dr. Min Chen, American Graduate School of International Management, will address the Chinese business environment. The Hale Group will present their evaluation of current USFGC programs in that country. Jeff Brown, USFGC director/China, will conclude the presentation with a look at the transitions occurring in China.

While the Army Corps of Engineers will discuss the levee system after the 1993 flood, Doanes Agricultural Service will present an overview of the Economic, agronomic, and sociological effects of the event.

During the meeting, the council will release its 1994 World Demand Forecast, a unique projection of world feed grains production, consumption, prices, and trade for the coming decade.

Soils Lab Publication Dedicated

NEWARK, Del. — The University of Delaware College of Agricultural Sciences has dedicated a bulletin summarizing the history of its soil testing program to Leo Cotnoir, former program director and a longtime faculty member of the department of plant and soil sciences.

The bulletin is "The University of Delaware Soil Testing Program: History, Philosophy, and Value, A Thirty-Seven Year Summary (1957-1993)."

Cotnoir retired in 1985 after a teaching career that spanned nearly four decades. His enthusiastic application of the principles of soil science to agricultural and environmental issues inspired countless students. Today, many of these men and women are making important contributions to the field of soil science.

Under Cotnoir's supervision, the university's soil testing laboratory grew from a few test tubes and simple benchtop equipment to a highly sophisticated, fully automated operation. He also coordinated the development and updating of fertilizer recommendations for all Delaware crops and directed the implementation of a computerized system for generating soil test reports. Farmers homeowners, researchers, and cooperative extension professionals are all beneficiaries of his foresight and dedication.

Vacuum Pump Withstands Long Use

NAPERVILLE, Ill. — The new Surge turbine vacuum pump is engineered to withstand long hours of commercial dairy use while heating the dairy's water or facility at no extra cost.

Air turbine design promotes longer pump life by eliminating internal friction that causes vibration and noise. Because the turbine vacuum pump uses no belts, water or oil, it lowers maintenance costs and eliminates the need to collect or dispose of oily exhaust.

A heat exchanger, available from Surge dealers, reclaims heat from the pump's exhaust for heating water or facilities.

"The Turbine Vacuum Pump can heat most of the hot water used to clean equipment for a typical commercial dairy," said Scott Opland, product manager at Babson Bros. Co. "Reduced demand on electric or gas water heaters lowers dairy operating cost, as does the pump's high efficiency and low maintenance needs."

The 17.1 horsepower pump is rated 200 CFM at 12.5 inches of mercury. An air filter assembly and safety shut-off valve are sold with the pump.

For more information on the Surge turbine vacuum pump, contact your local Surge dealer or write to Surge Turbine Vacuum Pump, Babson Bros. Co., 1880 Country Farm Drive, Naperville, IL. 60563.

Soil Phosphorus Topic At Corn, Soy Conference

NEWARK, Del. — Corn and soybean farmers can learn about phosphorus, soil and the environmennt at the annual Corn and Soybean Conference set for Feb. 16 at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury, Md.

Dr. Tom Sims, University of Delaware professor of soil science, will discuss the issue of excess phosphorus in soils and what can be done to address the problem.

Long recognized as a problem in European countries, excessive phosphorus can be a result of spreading large quantities of poultry manure.

"In the Delmarva area, there is a problem of phosphorus buildup to excessive levels well beyond what crops need," Sims said. "About 70 percent of the soil samples that come through the university's soil testing laboratory are high or excessive in phosphorus. Looking at these soil test results, we see a potential problem in the area."

Sims said phosphorus buildup is often seen in areas with concentrated animal-based agriculture. Whether poultry, dairy or swine, the manure contains more phosphorus than can be taken up by field crops.

Although phosphorus does not readily leach into groundwater, and thus does not pose a threat to drinking water, it can have detrimental effects on the environment.

"Excess phosphorus does have an environmental impact on surface water," said Sims. "It stimulates algal growth in bodies of water, which can result in fish kills."

Sims said no-till practices, buffer strips, and grass waterways all help to contain phosphorus and prevent it from moving into bodies of surface water. Sims will discuss his research on controlling drainage of phosphorus-laden water and corrective measures at the meeting. His talk is scheduled for 11:15 a.m.

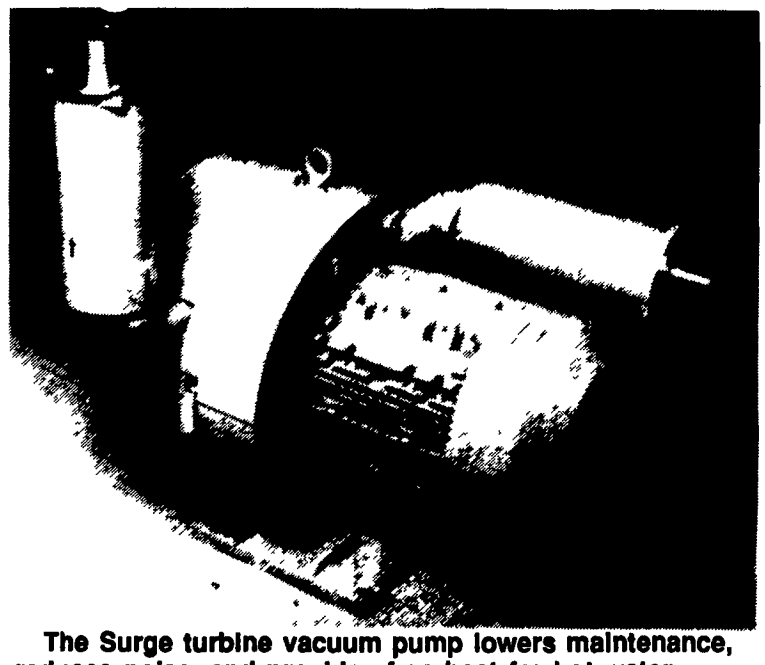
The conference, which runs from 8:30 a.m. until 3 p.m., also will include presentations on weed problems, soil compaction, droughty soils, and marketing. Complete schedules of the conference are available at county extension offices in Delaware and Maryland.

Smith Becomes Loan Officer

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — Blaine L. Smith recently became a loan officer for PennWest Farm Credit, ACA (Agriculture Credit Association) in the Curryville office, according to Eastern Service Area Manager Jay Chamberlin.

Prior to joining Farm Credit, Smith was county executive director for ASCS for Blair County since 1991. He was with USDA a total of seven years.

Smith was raised on a Montana wheat and cattle ranch and received his bachelor's from Montana State University in business.



The Surge turbine vacuum pump lowers maintenance, reduces noise, and provides free heat for hot water.

Sire Evaluation for Somatic Cell Scores

by Larry W. Specht
Professor of Dairy Science
Penn State University

The USDA Animal Improvement Programs Lab (AIPL) has developed a sire evaluation program for the genetic improvement of mastitis resistance. Plans are to release this information on sires with January 1994 genetic evaluation summaries.

AIPL calculates and publishes genetic evalutation for production traits (milk, fat and protein) using DHIA records. Genetic evaluations for mastitis resistance will be producedfrom DHIA somatic cell count data on daughters or individual sires with procedures similar to those used with production traits. Somatic cell counts (raw scores) will be converted to somatic cell scores (SCS) for the evaluation.

Geneticists caution that dairymen should not over emphasize mastitis in their sire selection strategy. They agree that production should continue to be the major component when selecting sires. However, when bulls with similar production values are available, it would be prudent to select those with the lower SCS evaluations. It should also be pointed out that no amount of selection intensity for lower SCS scores with replace good management in controlling mastitis.

Other changes in the January 1994 sire evaluations are (1) adjustment to the milk, fat, protein dollar values (M,F,P,$) to account for the cost of additional feed required for the higher production by daughters of the higher ranking sires, (2) inclusion of production life (PL) in the new evaluation index and (3) creation of a Net Merit (NM) index that will include the production traits as well as the SCS and PL values.

Values from the Net Merit index have been compared to those from the M,F,P,$ index for a large sample of sires. The correlation between the two indexes is 0.96. Thus, there will not be a lot of change in the rankings of individual sires when the January 1994 summaries are published.

Multiple Component Pricing is Here

Multiple Component Pricing can be defined as a method in which the pricing of milk uses all the components of milk, including butterfat, protein and/or solids-not-fat. The dairy industry has priced milk, based on weight and butterfat content, since the early 1900's. For sometime now the system has not been reflective of commercial demand in the market place. To be more specific, the consumers are demanding lowfat dairy products.

Multiple Component Pricing would send the consumer a more positive and accurate market or economic signal.

So far in Pennsylvania, federal order 36, which comprises Eastern Ohio-Western Pennsylvania; the MCP has taken effect and is being used to price milk.

Low Somatic Cell is also important to the MCP. For example, Producers A and B have milk with identical protein content but differ greatly in somatic cell counts (SCC). Producer A has a SCC of 150,000 while producer B has a SCC of 900,000. Producer A is more desirable because of the greater value to cheese manufacturers. The rule of thumb is that cheese yields increase as SCC tests decrease. When all summed up in one sentence, high protein/low SCC milk has the most economic value.

Let's take a closer look at the impact somatic cell can have on the MCP. The table enclosed shows the somatic cell adjustment that would be made for each pound of protein.

Somatic Cell Adjustment as Recommended for December 1992

Cheese Price $1.2041

Somatic Cell Counts	Adjustment Per Pound Protein
<100,000	$ 0.11
100,000 - 199,999	$ 0.08
200,000 - 299,999	$ 0.04
300,000 - 399,999	$ 0.02
400,000 - 499,999	$ 0.00
500,000 - 599,999	($ 0.02)
600,000 - 699,999	($ 0.04)
700,000 - 799,999	($ 0.06)
800,000 - 899,999	($ 0.08)
>900,000	($ 0.11)

For example, if producer A is less than 100,000 somatic cell count, than for each pound of protein, a positive 11 cent adjustment will be made.

However, in another situation where producer B would have a somatic cell of more than 900,000, that producer would be deducted a total of 11 cents per pound of protein.

Let's examine the somatic cell adjustment on a per hundred weight basis. If producer A and Producer B have a 3.2 percent protein content. To determine the effect, multiply the appropriate somatic cell adjustment by the protein content to calculate the somatic cell adjustment on a per hundredweight basis.

To illustrate, Producer A would receive a positive 35.2 cents per hundred weight of milk (3.2 x 11 cents) somatic cell adjustment. In another situation Producer B would have a negative of 35.2 cents per hundredweight of milk (3.2 x 11.cents) somatic cell adjustment. This essentially means that 35.2 cents per hundred weight would be deducted from Producer B's milk check.

Basically, a producer who maintains a butterfat of 3.5% and a protein of 3.2%, and maintains an acceptable somatic cell count, will maintain the same milk price as shown under the traditional pricing. (See example below)

MCP EXAMPLE

Assumption:
Blend = $13.50 @ 3.5% BF
B.F. Differential = 7.0 cents
Butterfat = 3.5%
Protein = 3.2%

Traditional Pricing: $13.50 Blend

MCP Example:

Fat	3.5 pounds x $ .80	= $2.80
Protein	3.2 pounds x $3.00	= $9.60
Class I & II Share of the Market		= $1.10
	Total	$13.50

Winter District Meetings

The November Fall District Director Meetings are finished and it's now time to prepare for the district DHIA Winter meetings to be held in January or February. The districts that will need to hold meetings are the districts where an election needs to take place. It was agreed at the Fall District Meetings that other districts may meet with those districts where elections need to take place and an agenda will be sent to the local committees for them to make those decisions.

The change in bylaws and new districts will go into effect January 1, 1994. This change will separate the state into smaller districts for state representation. The following will outline the districts where some meetings have been held and some need to establish a date and place. The nominating committee from each county will need to contact the other counties in their district. These meetings need to take place after Jan. 1, but before the annual meeting of Feb. 18,1994. They are as follows:

District 1 & 2 ,To be decided.
District 3 & 6 Ramada Inn, Somerset, Feb. 9,1994.
District 4, Oxyok Restaurant, Galeton, Jan. 20,1994
District 5, To be decided.
District 7 & 8, To be decided.
District 9 & 10, To be decided, possibly Carlisle.
District 11 , Family House Restaurant, Mifflintown, Jan 25,1994.
District 13, 14, 16, Pink Apple Tunkhannock, Jan. 20,1994.
Districts 15, 17, 18, Berks Ag Center, Feb.1,1994.

Those districts that will need to hold election for State Directors are Districts 18, 17, 14, 12, 11, 8,5,4. Terms expiring in District 5, Frank Orner, District 8, Steve Mowery, District 11, Brooks Smith, District 14, Joe Lyons, District 18, Norman Hershey. District 4 and 12 currently have no director and District 17 will need to hold an election as they presently have two, Don Duncan and Dennis Daubert.

Young Cooperative Leaders

Each summer the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives conducts a training program for young cooperative leaders. This year PA DHIA selected as our "Young Cooperative Leader Couple", Bob and Marcia Trotter, Lawrence County, Enon Valley. Ken and Jodi Heffner, Schulykill County of Pine Grove, PA.

The PCC Young Cooperative Leaders conference program was held at Days Inn Penn State, State College, on July 12-14, 1993. The objective is to increase young cooperative leader understanding of cooperative issues and affairs. Also to develop leadership attitudes and skills of young cooperative members. To recognize and effectively use both spouses in farm, cooperative, and community affairs. Exchanging ideas and experiences in a social and educational environment is part of the forum.

The Heffner's have a Dairy & Fruit Farm on 500 acres. Jodi is also employed as a legal secretary in Reading, Pa. The Heffner's have a young todler son, Kyle. They are very active with quite a few cooperatives. They belong to the St. John's Lutheran Church and Kent serves on the Ag Advisory Committee of the school board.

The Trotter's have busy schdules too. Aside from their dairy farm consisting of 100 milking Holstein and Guernsey cows. They crop farm 650 acres.

Marcia and Bob have 3 children, Casey, Tommy, Travis. Marcia works as a Dental Assistant.

They are quite involved with Ag Cooperatives when their not dairying.

Congratulations on 25 years Service!!

A gold wrist watch and a length of service certificates were presented to Raymond Ross, Montour County and Ken Smith, Indiana County for 25 years of service with PA DHIA.

Larry Hay Region Manager from Region 2, presented watch and award to Ken Smih.

John Kline, Past Region Manager presented watch and award to Raymond Ross of Northumberlatid County.

Technicians Receive State Awards for Services

PENNSYLVANIA DHIA TECHNICIAN TRAINING AND CERTIFICATION ADVISORY COMMITTEE

BACKGROUND

Over the last 15 years, information technology has become increasingly cheaper, more powerful and more flexible. Tasks that once required large mainframe data processing systems maintained by central programming staffs are now accomplished in multiple remote locations with portable hardware and software. Among the organizations most affected by these changes is the DHIA whose primary business is information management.

These technology developments have had profound affects on the employees of DHIA who deliver management information services to dairy producers. Their job responsibilities have grown more complex and demanding as they are expected to provide more varied services to more people. Added to this complexity is increasing professionalism which is prompted by NDHIA Quality Certification standards and by the conversion of the national DHIA system into a competitive marketplace.

DHIA field technicians are asked to do more today and in a better way than their predecessors of the last 20-30 years. Consequently, the need for better training is growing.

Never-the less. DHIA often has fewer resources available to train them and they struggle to provide the support and training that technicians deserve and need.

In response to this problem, suggestions were made to appoint a committee to assist the PA DHIA Board and Staff with this problem. In April, 1993, the Board approved the appointment of an advisory committee to deal specifically with this issue.

COMMITTEE PURPOSE, STRUCTURE AND COMPOSITION

The advisory committee is a permanent committee responsible to the PA DHIA Board of Directors. Its purpose is:

1. To review the requirements for technician training needed to meet NDHIA certification.

2. To determine additional qualifications needed to meet the needs of the marketplace in fulfilling the mission of the association.

3. To review existing training programs for DHIA technicians and identify weaknesses in them.

4. To determine the resources needed to properly train technicians and make recommendations to the Board and Staff regarding needed changes in training programs, and in the allocation of resources to support them.

Lap Top Demonstration

Data at your Fingertips

PA DHIA Technicians continue to serve their members with the introduction of the lap tops. The electronic data entry by the technicians is the project of PA DHIA since the summer conference and additional training was held during the October Fall Conference for the technicians. Region Managers and senior technicians assist with the extra training sessions as required. 141 technicians have been assigned user id's on the mainframe system. About 93 are active-either actually released for transmission or sending parallel transmissions with paper barnsheets for comparisons. A Help Desk function to support technicians from 7:00 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. 5 days a week. With questions and problems as they occur. transmitting data to the mainframe from the farm.

Is PA DHIA the first to attempt such a project? For data entry- we're far from the first. Some DHIAs have been doing electronic data entry for approximately ten years. As of January 1, 1993 it was estimated that just under 50% of the DHI cows in the nation have their data entered electronically. However, our approach to a totally integrated program is relatively recent and something that a number of DHIs are in the process of putting in the field.

A few of the state DHIAs have an agreement with the Dairy Comp 305 program owners, Valley Ag Software. At some point in the near future, well over 50% of the DHI cows in the nation will have access to the Dairy Comp 305 program on test day. PA Daries will begin to see reports in the

Distinguished Service Award

Each year a list of nominees for the Distinguished Service Award is formulated. Each canidate must have completed five years of service and qualified for the Award of Merit for the previous year. One technician is chosen from each region based on the following criteria. Cooperation with county personnel, statistcal performance, neatness and appearance.

Technicians may only receive this award once. It is also required that a technician win this award prior to consideration for Superior Technician. The winners each receive a plaque and check for $25.00.

Region 1: Lisa Kulinski, Lawrence County

Region 2: Brenda Bingenheimer, Bedford County

Region 3: John Loughner, Bradford County

Region 4: Andrew Baer, Lebanon County

Putnam Award

The Putnam Memorial Award was initiated in 1983 in honor of Dexter N. Putnam for his contributions to PA DHIA. Mr. Putnam was an extension dairy man from 1957 until his retirement in 1982. Dexter's dairy extension responsibilities included working with DHIA Technicians to improve their accuracy in reporting data on DHIA forms. The Putnam award is given annually to the technician who commits the fewest errors per 1000 cows tested. Technicians may only win this award once. The winner receives an engraved desk set.

YOU CAN HOLD THE WINNING HAND by joining a champion team.

Even when the chips are down you can be confident of success if you belong to the Pennsylvania DHIA.

That's because Pennsylvania gives you the information you need to make wise management decisions.

As a member of Pennsylvania DHIA you tap into an official nationwide network of information. Pennsylvania scored a 100% in the Laboratory Services and Field Services for providing quality service and accurate, reliable results to member dairy producers. Pennsylvania is committed to their members. Spring of '94 as our technicians get more proficeint at running these reports and using Dairy Comp 305.

This project is being paid for by the PA DHIA reserves for equipment and the program writing is being covered by Valley Ag Software for Dairy Comp 305. In the future, it is estimated or projected that the reduction in data entry at the DHIA Service Center at the the state office will finance the on going expenses.

This is a big project and often with a project of this size they move slowly. When this project is completed it will offer data at your fingertips, and offer greater flexibility. Flexibility is needed by today's dairy farmers.
Flexibility that is needed to serve the varied needs and requests for information that is wanted by a large and diverse number of dairy farmers.

Hollinger Award

The Carl B. Hollinger Award was started in 1977 in honor of Mr. Hollinger who was a fieldman for PA DHIA from 1954-1974. The winner of this award is selected by the employees who work in Central Milk Testing Lab, to recognize the outstanding technician for excellence in neatness and accuracy of samples and barnsheets. Criteria used in selecting the winner include order and neatness of the barnsheets, neatness in sample packing, size of samples, method of ordering supplies, and cooperation with the lab. The winner receives an engraved desk set.

Andrew Baer,Lebanon County

Pennsylvania DHIA does an excellent job of communicating with current members. Listening to their needs and shaping reports to meet their needs. We provide a full service DHIA to our members and we are the only DHIA on the Eastern U.S. to offer all to our members.

Deciding to go with Pennsylvania is a decision to be successful. Pennsylvania DHIA is active in various cooperatives and workshops. We provide workshops to our members on an individual basis or in group settings also to interested ag lenders and veterinarians and feed consultants periodically in the year. The staff is committed to providing workshop on using and understanding DHIA records.

Deciding to go with Pennsylvania is a decision to be successful. To be ahead of the game. To be a winner. Call today!

Rookie of the Year

The Rookie of the Year was established to honor new technicians who have shown exceptional aptitude in learning the job of the DHIA Technician. These individuals must have worked between 6 to 18 months and demonstrate outstanding cooperation with the state and local DHIA organizations in conducting an efficient and accurate testing program.
The award consists of engraved plaque. This year the field staff had a difficult choice to make since there are several very good new technicians.

Land Trust Works With Landowners

YORK (York Co.) — As 1993 came to a close, the Farm & Natural Lands Trust, York County's only private nonprofit land preservation organization, was busy wrapping up land saving actions on more than 232 acres of land.

Conservation easements on the first two properties, consisting of a total of 64 acres, were formally accepted by F&NLT's board of directors at their November meeting. These lands will now be forever protected for their agricultural and natural open space values.

Two of the most unique features a private land trust can offer a landowner who wishes to protect their land are flexibility and anonymity. For many different reasons, landowners wishing to protect their land sometimes prefer to do so privately. The first conservation easement approved was granted to the Trust under a limited disclosure agreement.

This conservation easement on 50 acres of farm and open space lands along Powder Mill Road is a first for York Township. The integrated nature of the current and intended future uses of this property provide substantial benefit to the community as a natural, ecological, and scenic resource. Through their donation of a conservation easement on this property, the landowners have provided a rare opportunity for land preservation and for the future of York County.

The second conservation easement approved in November is another first for both public and private land preservation efforts in York County. This easement on 14.308 acres of agricultural land has been granted to F&NLT by Barbara Warren of East Manchester Township, with a future conservation easement on the adjoining 188 acres of agricultural and natural lands.

The Warren Farm, at times referred to locally as Starview Farms, lies between the village of Starview and the Boro of Mt. Wolf. The original 202-acre property, from which the 14.308-acre parcel was separately deeded, has been in the Warren family since 1948, and has supported a variety of agricultural uses. Today the land is in a crop rotation of corn, wheat, soybeans, hay, and oats. With better than 96 percent of all soils on this parcel in soil capability Classes I through IV, this tract is well suited to its current agricultural use.

Management of the property to promote wildlife and bird habitat has been a long-term project for Barb Warren. An avid birder with interests in international conservation, she wanted to assure that the conservation easement that would forever protect her family's land would also address her concerns for the birds and other wildlife that have made the lands of Starview Farms their home. The flexibility of the Farm & Natural Lands Trust was critically important in assisting Barb to devise a conservation easement that specifically addressed her concerns. The easement as approved, calls for the maintenance of wetlands and hedgerows while prohibiting the destruction or alteration in a manner detrimental to wildlife of the ponds, water courses, and wetlands located on the property. In addition, pastures, fields and boundary fences are to be left in natural vegetation and managed so as to provide corridors of habitat for wildlife, birds and native plant species.

Gift Allows Students To Gain Research Experience

NEWARK, Del. — Seven undergraduate students are working on major research projects in the University of Delaware's department of entomology and applied ecology this year, thanks to a $10,000 gift from the DuPont 1993-1994 Educational Aid Fund.

Department chair Dr. Robert Allen said the gift was used to create jobs that would give the students practical experience doing research.

Students benefiting from the gift are Stacey Bonvetti, Wilmington; Courtney Harris, New Castle; Timothy Rhodes, Bear; Eva Santana, Wilmington; Andrew Shantz, Ridgefield, Conn.; Charles Wortman III, Wilmington; and Leslie Zane III, Newark.

Bonvetti, a sophomore entomology major with a wildlife concentration, is working for Allen on a study of the worldwide distribution and biology of primitive wingless insects.

Harris and Schantz are working for Dr. Tom Wood on a study of the basic biology of how insects adapt to host plants. Both students are senior entomology majors.

Rhodes, also a senior entomology major, has a job helping Dr. Clifford Keil study a botanical extract that has the potential to enhance the action of biological insecticides.

Santana, a freshman majoring in entomology with a wildlife concentration, works for Dr. Charles Mason. She is helping establish laboratory colonies of two pheromone types of the European corn borer, a major crop pest, for a study of each type's host plant preferences.

Wortman is helping Dr. Roland Roth analyze data on the survival and productivity of wood thrush in the university woodlot, a suburban forest fragment. He is a senior majoring in entomolgy with a wildlife concentration.

Zane, a senior entomology major with a wildlife concentration, is helping Keil optimize artificial rearing procedures for the European corn borer in the laboratory.

The DuPont Education Aid Program that funded these jobs is sponsored by E.I. DuPont DeNemours and Co.

Entomology majors with research jobs created through a gift from the DuPont Educational Aid Fund include Leslie Zane, left, Timothy Rhodes, Courtney Harris, Charles Wortman, Eva Santana and Stacey Bonvetti in front. With them is entomology department chair Robert T. Allen.

Corporations Support Conservation Districts

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Five corporations have pledged support for the efforts of county conservation districts through generous donations to the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, Inc. (PACD).

The five companies include Pennsylvania Power and Light Company; Pennsylvania-American Water Company; Robert G. Hartman and Associates; H. Edward Black Associates; and Grove Associates. The companies were recognized at a banquet during PACD's quarterly statewide executive council meeting Jan. 6 at the Holiday Inn, Grantville.

PACD has kicked off its annual individual and business membership drive and fund-raising campaign for local conservation district programs. Annual membership in PACD is open to individuals, students, and businesses at various levels beginning at $15. Benefits may include quarterly issues of Pennsylvania Resources magazine, discounts on conservation products and free publications about water and soil conservation in Pennsylvania, plus meetings, educational opportunities and more.

A professional fund raiser has been contracted to raise money for local conservation district programs not administered by the state. Chandler Associates of Harrisburg will work to raise funds for both short and long-term support for the environmental efforts of local conservation districts. Recent past efforts by the company have resulted in an increase in corporate funding support.

Farm-City Winners Announced

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff presented plaques to representatives of two Farm-City Committees and checks to three youngsters for their artistic talents last week at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

The presentations were made on behalf of the Pennsylvania Farm-City Council for individual and group efforts to promote farm-city relationships.

A plaque was presented to the Franklin Farm-City Week Committee in recognition of their tireless efforts to help urban and rural citizens understand and appreciate their dependence on each other.

"Organizers of Farm-City activities in Franklin County have been farm-city leaders for many years," according to Secretary Wolff. "During the past year, they have organized displays, service club activities and tours, held an pumpkin caper, apple festival, dairy farm open house, poster contest, radio and newspaper announcements, job exchange program and banquet."

The second award of recognition went to the Tioga County Farm-City Committee for its imaginative efforts.

"Tioga County's Farm-City efforts serve as an example for other counties across the Commonwealth," Secretary Wolff said. "Organizers of Farm-City activities in Tioga County held tours, displays, exhibits, demonstrations, job exchanges, radio and television programs, and an appreciation dinner. They aslo helped neighboring Potter County get Farm-City activities underway."

Three youngsters earned themselves paychecks for their artixstic interpretation of this year's Farm-City Poster Theme, "Farms & Cities...Working Hand in Hand."

A $100 Check from the State Farm-City Council was presented to Charlie Glass of Blairsville, for his winning poster. Charlie, a seventh grader at Blairsville Junior High, qualified for the State Poster Contest by entering the Indiana County Fair and winning there. He's also showing some sheep while he's at the Farm Show this week.

The second prize of $75 went to Melanie Barys of Fleetwood. Melanie, seventh grader at Oley Valley Middle School, qualified through the Oley Valley Community Fair.

Third prize and $50 went to John Barilla of Dallas. John, an eighth grader at Gate of Heaven School in Dallas, was a winner at the Wyoming County Fair.

Farm-city activities are held around the Commonwealth throughout the year to promote rural and urgan understanding and to stress the interdependence on communities have on each other.

State Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff presents Farm-City awards to, from the left, John Cameron representing Franklin County, and a couple representing Tioga County.

TOW AWAY SPECIAL!!

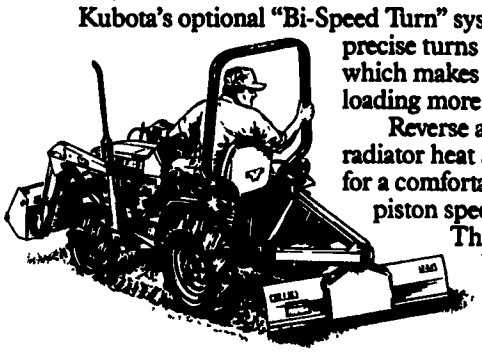
SCRAPE, DIG, PULL, LOAD, MOW AND MORE

Estate owners, landscapers and farmers will appreciate the Kubota B-50 Series' wide choice of handy implements.

These include mid and rear mount mowers, front loaders, boxscrapers, backhoes, posthole diggers, snowblowers, even rotary tillers.

Kubota's remarkable B-50 Series compact tractors come with mid and 2-speed rear PTO. Optional Hydrostatic transmission. From 17-24 HP.

Kubota's optional "Bi-Speed Turn" system allows smaller and precise turns in 4-Wheel Drive, which makes mowing, and even loading more efficient.



Reverse air flow cooling directs radiator heat away from the operator for a comfortable, quiet ride. Low piston speed extends engine life.

The Kubota B-50 Series. Versatile compact tractors.

THE TRACTOR FOR EVERY SEASON

Kubota's G-Series Garden Tractors work hard for you year round.

They are quick-starting with an easy-to-use hydrostatic transmission and cruise control. A choice of implements provides the G-Series with year-round versatility.

In spring, a rotary tiller can help prepare your garden for planting.

Later in the year choose from shaft drive mid-mount, quick attach mowers from 48-60 inches wide. A grass catcher lets you breeze through those summer chores almost effortlessly.

When cold weather comes along, equip your Kubota with a two-stage snowblower and rear tire chains.

Optional 4-wheel steering and 16-21 HP liquid cooled engines are designed to keep your Kubota in operation for many seasons to come.

The Kubota G-Series garden tractor – make it your tractor for every season.

MASTER MIX DAIRY FEEDS

83.1 Pounds of Fat Corrected Milk on November 1993 Test Day with Master Mix Dairy Feed Program

Since coming on Master Mix feed, the quality of the feed and the service of Andover Mill has been excellent. The hot summers hurt our production, but the herd milk average continues to climb while herd health continues to improve. Master Mix is meeting all of our needs from calves through milking herd, and we've really noticed improvement in the young heifers.

3 Jerseys peak over 100 pounds on AminoTek

Bob and Helene Dreisbach have been successfully feeding their Jersey herd Master Mix dairy feed for many years, and most recently had 3 Jerseys peak over 100 pounds of milk per day.

"Our feed usage averages about 3 pounds milk per pound of feed. A good complete feed saves time, labor and improves consistency over mixing our own feed. We would go out of business before mixing our own feed again."

Case Improves Disk Harrows

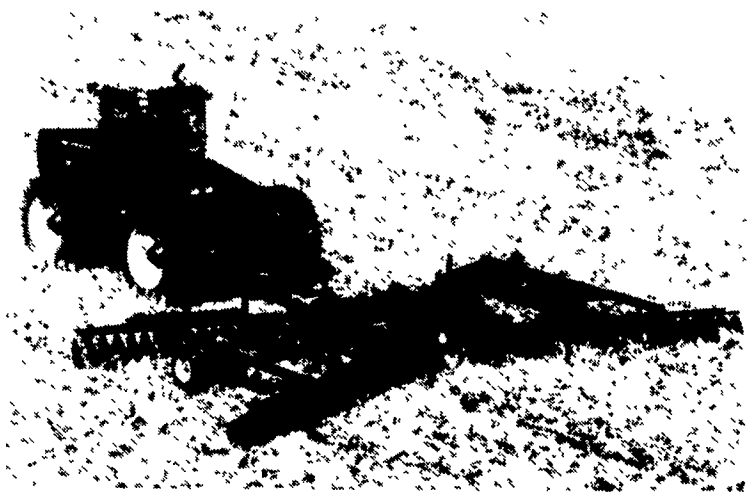
RACINE, Wis. — The Case International 3900 Cushion Gang® II disk harrows incorporate a stronger, more resilient bearing design that makes them superior to previous 3900 Cushion Gang disk harrows.

The improved trunnion-style bearing holder wraps around the bearing, preventing breakage that can be caused by heavy spike loads. According to Kurt Schenck, Case product manager-implements, this bearing design is 38 percent stronger and handles significantly more deflection than earlier designs.

The improved bearing design has been incorporated in all units produced since the fall of 1992. It retrofits all 3900 Cushion Gang disk harrows, as well as all Case International 496 Cushion Gang disk harrows, with a special bearing bracket available as a parts item.

The 3900 Cushion Gang disk harrow is one of three models of 3900 Flex-wing disk harrows available from Case. All have 1.5-inch round, arbor bolts for strength and dependability. All also are equipped with Case International Earth Metal®, crimp-center disk blades that have proven to have 20 percent longer life and 60 percent greater shock resistance than conventional blades.

In addition, all Case International 3900 disk harrows feature built-in furrows fillers, a self-leveling hitch to prevent gouging, 18-degree fixed-angle opposed-action front and rear gangs to guarantee a full cut with uniform soil mixing, and mechanical depth stops on the wing wheels for more accurate chemical mixing and residue incorporation.



All Case International 3900 disk harrows are equipped with Case International Earth Metal®, crimp-center disk blades, built-in furrow fillers, and other features that assure long life and optimum performance.

The 3900 Cushion Gang® and Rigid models come with standard 20-inch blades on 7.5-inch spacing or 22-inch blades on 9-inch spacing. Sizes for all models range from 19 feet 10 inches to 33 feet 7 inches.

The folding design featured on the 3900 disk harrows improves field-to-transport efficiency and over-the-deck visibility. Transport widths range from 12 feet 5 inches to 14 feet 8 inches.

Options include a soil mulcher, front gauge wheels for loose soil conditions, rear jackstand for use with the soil mulcher, bearing wear guards, safety lighting package, and solid or notched 20-inch or 22-inch Earth Metal®, crimp-center blades.

Choose Hybrids With High Test Weight

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — The elimination of government program set-aside acres in 1994 means that many corn growers will plant more acres next year. This added acreage provides growers an opportunity to plant different types of corn hybrids, said Myles Engelstad, Northrup King senior agronomist in Minnesota.

While shorter growing seasons and abnormally low growing degree units have biased performance in favor of earlier corn hybrids, Engelstad contends that full-reason hybrids are still a viable alternative.

As a basic strategy, the Northrup King agronomist recommends planting the majority of corn acres to mid-season hybrids, and adjusting early and late hybrids according to anticipated weather conditions.

Digital Scale Improves

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The WayPig Digital Scale can be fitted with a new J Star Indicator which can be easily removed and used on other equipment when needed. This new indicator improves the versatility of the electronic scale, especially on farms with other Raytec/J Star way bars and grinder-mixers. (It will also work on the Gehl & Ford New Holland grinder-mixer.)

Now you can use just one indicator for all of your weighing applications.

Easily mounted on the top of the equipment, the new indicator electronics are housed in seamless, high-impact Lexan for full protection from dust and moisture. It has a liquid-crystal display with large, easy-to-read numbers, plus keys for power, tare, and one that lets you double check the animals weight without taking it off the scale.

This coulter/row cleaner combination is unit mounted to closely follow ground contours. In addition to the residue-cutting and soil slicing of the coulter you gain benefits of the row cleaner: less hairpinning of residue, faster soil warm up, and a smooth ride for the openers. This all helps the opener penetrate and provides zone tillage that helps the closing wheels do their best work in creating ideal seed to-soil contact.

CONSERVATION TILLAGE SYSTEMS

Whether you are concerned about SOIL COMPACTION or RESIDUE MANAGEMENT

DMI

ECOLOTIL TILLAGE SYSTEMS Solve Your Problems!!!

DMI's Patented Point Makes The Difference

ECOLOTIL SYSTEMS

DMI SYSTEM	Min. HP Required
3 Shank Ecolotil	80
5 Shank Ecolotil	130
527 Ecolotiger	130
530 Ecolotiger	170
703 Ecolotiger	250

Each of these machines can be equipped to meet your particular needs. Your choices include shank style, shank arrangement, coulters/ discs, rear levelers or point style.

Soil Compaction is a problem on every farm we've checked. Breaking up the compaction layer

1) decreases soil run-off in wet years, by permitting water to percolate into the subsoil

2) makes room for plant roots systems to seek and find moisture in dry years

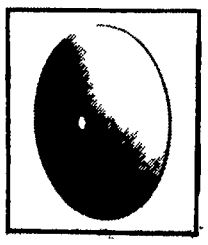
#1 CONSERVATION DISC In The EAST

Here's Three Reasons WHY They WORK On Eastern Farms — The Toughest Tillage Conditions In The U.S.

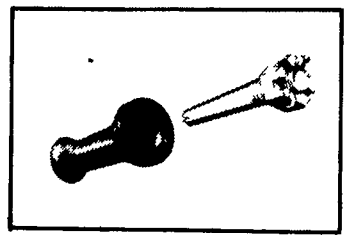
HEAVY-DUTY GANGS

Krause Invented The ROCK-FLEX BEARING SYSTEM.

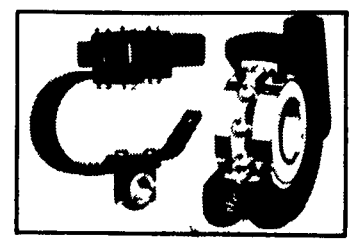
THE HEART OF THE GANG...



IMPACT RESISTANT DISC BLADES With 2.5" Concavity For CONSERVATION Residue Management



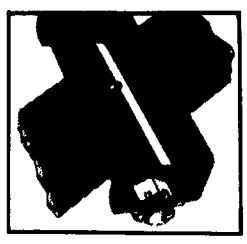
COLD-ROLLED Alloy Tie Rods With Nuts On Both Ends. DUCTILE IRON SPOOLS w/Machined Ends For Tight Fit



Regreasable BEARINGS Encased In RUBBER Inside A CAST-IRON Housing To Reduce Shock To The Bearings (2 YEAR BEARING WARRANTY)

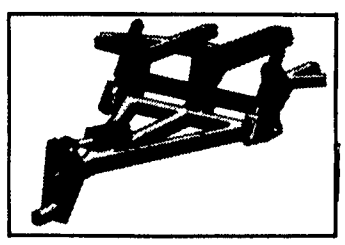
HEAVY-DUTY FRAME

Krause Invented The FLEX-WING System That LEVELS YOUR FIELDS...



Big 1⅛ "x15" wing hinge bolts in replaceable, hardened wear bushings. Grease zerk provided for lubrication. (4990 Series)

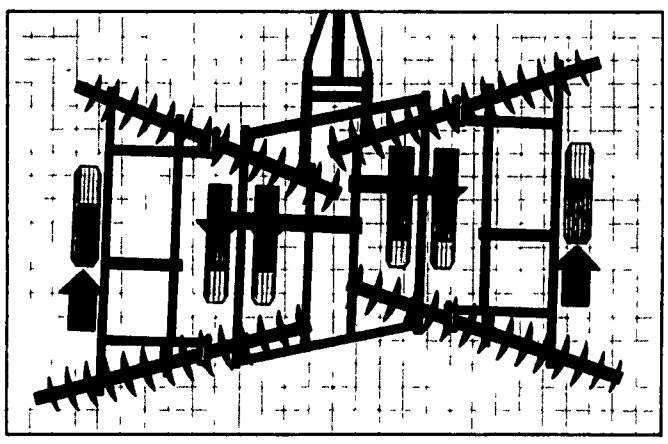
Super-strength frame with gang beams bolted to the underside of the frame for extra durability compared to integrated construction techniques where gangs are welded onto the frames.



Massive hitch is built for rugged field use, with a large 4"x4" steel center tube, and 2"x4" steel tube braces. (4900 Series)

UNIQUE WHEEL ARRANGEMENTS

(4900 Series)



This special wheel arrangement saves fuel by helping to prevent gouging.

In field position, the center wheels move backward as the wing wheels move forward — providing more uniform depth-gauging of front wing gangs. Heavy-duty, regreasable wheel hubs and big 10:00x15" 8-ply tires are standard equipment.

PERFORMANCE IN THE FIELD — Cutting, Finishing, Or Residue Management: KRAUSE DISCS CUT IT!

AGRICULTURAL RADIALS

KLEBER TIRE CORPORATION: A MICHELIN TIRE CORPORATION DIVISION!!

For years Kleber has been the European leader in agricultural radials, both in original equipment and replacement sales. Now, that same technology is avaialble in the East.

INTRODUCING A NEW FAMILY OF RADIAL FARM TIRES

A front/rear radial tire designed for heavy-high horse power tractors that can improve traction over 15%, while reducing soil compaction! Operating air pressure as low as 8 P.S.I. will dramatically boost your yields.

EXCLUSIVE BENEFITS BY DESIGN

What do we say when our customers ask us for the best farm tire we have? (After all, by now he has tried Goodyear, Firestone, Armstrong...). We have a new answer to that old question: Kleber (Pronounced Claybear) Here's why Kleber, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Michelin Tire Corporation has been making radial farm tires since 1952. In Europe (which is 85% radial), Kleber is number one and michelin is number two in both original equipment and replacement farm tires The immediate benefits farmers will have are:

1 Tremendous traction-after all, Kleber is a minimum of 28% deeper in non-skid. For example, a Kleber 18.4R38 is 64/32nds vs. 51/32nds on any commodity radial made in the U.S.

2. The exclusively patented innerlug system accelerates cleanout, reduced downtime and supplements traction.

3. The unique carcass and belt configuration allows directional stability on the highway even with center hitch equipment. After all, Kleber is designed for road use. It is, in fact, speed rated at 25 mph.

4. And last, in addition to the normal benefits of radials, Kleber's wear is so extended that we have product on main tractor application with ten years of service in 8,000 hours.

WHY KLEBER RADIAL FARM TIRES?

- Lowest Cost per hour
- Highest traction - wet or dry
- Quietest highway transport
- Smoothest ride - no bounce
- Greatest fuel economy
- Most stable center hitch haul
- Lowest uniform soil compaction
- Fastest wet soil clean out

WHAT ARE THE UNIQUE FEATURES THAT MAKE KLEBER HEAD AND SHOULDER ABOVE THE COMPETITION?

- Dual angle bead configuration to insure no slip rim grip
- Bead/sidewall/belt package that provides on/off highway stability
- Non-stretch belts that reinforce the premium bar depth while protecting the radial carcass from field hazards
- Advanced R-1W bar depth to provide extra traction and low cost/hour usage
- Non-stretch belt/carcass design to minimize soil compaction, eliminate pressure spikes and provide uniform wear pattern
- Total design/build techniques to insure stable no bounce ride with center hitch equipment at 45 KPH
- Noise/vibration engineering to optimize bar contour/spacing
- Close technical ties to all tractor manufacturers in the Western World insuring compatibility
- Extensive front wheel assist OE/replacement knowledge world-wide
- In-house research - development staff

MODEL 120 CONVEY-N-FEED® END CHARGE FEEDER

Deep-trough, air borne 14 in. belt carries 27% more feed than a flat 16 in. belt. 105% more than a flat 12 in. belt. Also, because 46% of the belt rides over thin air - instead of sliding on metal surface there's less drag. Requires less HP, less energy, reduces wear on the belt. Belt returns conditions for reduced friction.

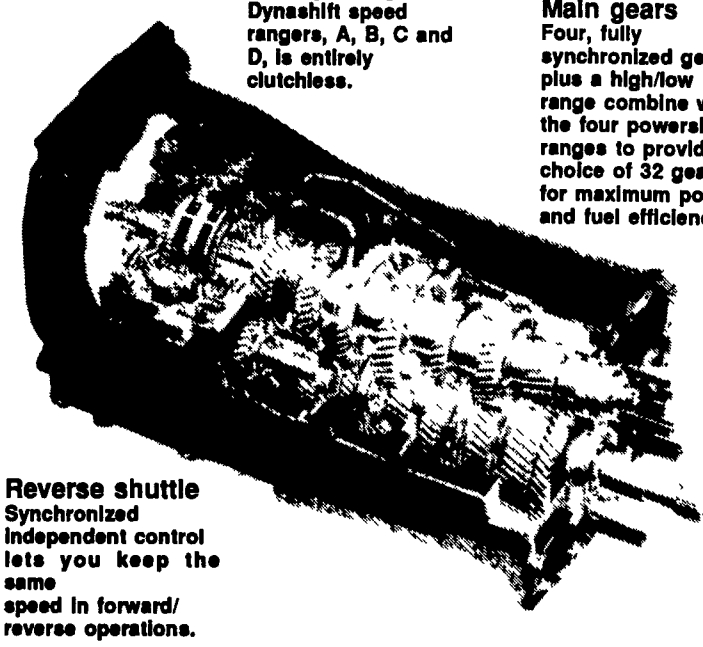
New Dynashift™ gives you the best features of both a manual and power-shift transmission.

Dynashift gives you 32 forward and 32 reverse gears by the unique combination of a 4-speed power-shift with an 8-speed synchronized gearbox and a synchronized forward/reverse shuttle.

MASSEY FERGUSON

Powershift unit
Shifting through four Dynashift speed rangers, A, B, C and D, is entirely clutchless.

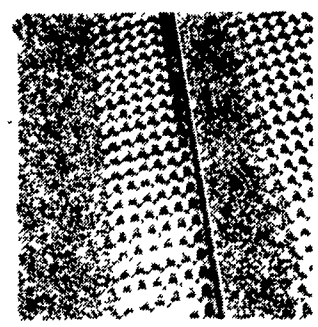
Main gears
Four, fully synchronized gears, plus a high/low range combine with the four powershift ranges to provide a choice of 32 gears for maximum power and fuel efficiency.



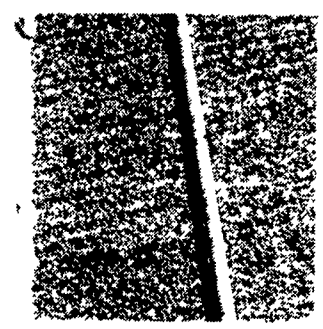
Reverse shuttle
Synchronized independent control lets you keep the same speed in forward/ reverse operations.

MASSEY FERGUSON

COMBINING SLOPES — THE MF 3-D CLEANING SYSTEM



Normal cleaning across slopes



3-D in operation

With the MF 3-D system you can operate at the same speed on slopes as on flat land. Daily performance can be maintained.

The 3-D cleaning system provides dynamic slope compensation which means that the upper sieve moves sideways against the slope of the hill. The degree and direction of these movements depend on the inclination of the slope. Quick reaction and of course equal performance in any direction on slopes of up to 20%.

With the MF-3-D cleaning system, the crop is distributed evenly across the full width of the sieves, performance remains stable and output maintained.

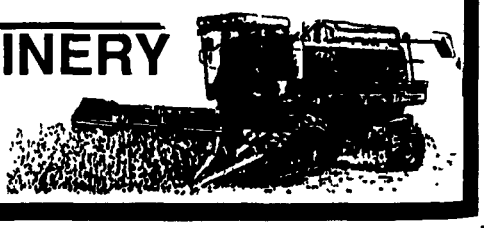
POSITIVELY NO OUT OF STATE PERSONAL CHECKS

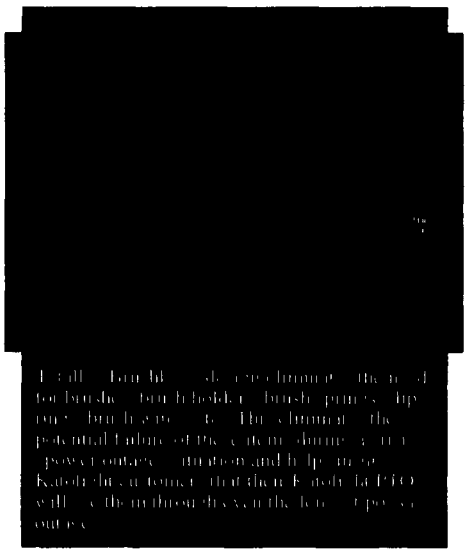


FAST!! Emergency Power from a superior PTO Alternator designed with landmark innovations.

When a "power out" situation occurs, you want power right away. Katolight gives it to you. As fast as you can hook up the PTO shaft to your tractor and connect and throw the transfer switch, you can be operating normally . . . FAST!!

Katolight innovations make this speedy operation possible. Let's take a closer look at some of them.

Speed Monitor Light—permits you to easily maintain proper speed. Because our speed monitor light is a solid state device (the only one in the industry) it is not subject to the vibration, moisture, heat and cold that can make a voltmeter (found in most competitive machines) difficult to operate. Our speed monitor light is easy to operate, which means time saved for you in an emergency situation.



Full load connectors—permit quick and easy hook up to the transfer switch. Katolight's models are all UL approved. It only fits one way, thus reducing your chances of making a time consuming error during an emergency situation.

These are just a few of the many manufacturing innovations that have enabled Katolight to pace the industry. And innovative engineering continues to mark the path of the Katolight PTO line in all phases of its design to produce emergency power for you when you need it . . . FAST!!

5-Year PTO Warranty.
The longest in the industry.

PLAN NOW FOR 1994!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

When Planning Your Forage Programs, Remember That Your Main Objective Is To Store The Plant And Remove It From Storage In As Good Condition As Possible. The Upright Silo Has Never Been Equalled In Its Ability To Do This.

On Most Dairy Farms, Forage Quality Is The Single Most Important Factor Relating To Profit.

Poured Concrete Silos Consistently Out-Perform All Other Methods Of Storing And Preserving The Total Digestible Nutrients In Forage Crops.

"Nobody Protects Forage Quality Like We Do...Nobody!"
No Used Silos!
No Rebuilt Silos!
No Preowned Silos!
"All New For You!!"

To Get Healthier Cows, There's A Lot To Prepare.™

To help dry cows prepare for freshening and the onset of lactation, you need new Purina® Prepare™ Dry Cow Supplement.

Most problems in early lactation begin in the dry period, but properly fed, managed, and conditioned dry cows have less calving trouble, healthier calves, and fewer breeding failures. They can also produce 1000 to 2000 lb more milk. Prepare effectively helps dry cows reach their ideal calving weight and body condition.

There is a lot to Prepare. Ask us about it.
